First gripe ever gains sewer line for resident

Complaint to real estate review board gets results

by STEVE BROWN

The first official hearing of the Des Plaines Real Estate Review Board may not come off, but the first complaint filed with the panel has apparently brought at least partial results.

The complaint, filed in late May by Barbara Givens, 401 W. Golf Rd., Des Plaines, contended that a local real estate broker had misrepresented facts concerning a parcel of land she purchased in 1970.

Miss Givens contended that a representative of McKay-Nealis Realtors, 1600 Oakton St., Des Plaines, claimed the Golf Road property was connected to the city sewer system. The property, however, utilized a septic system.

WHILE REPRESENTATIVES of the real state firm have contended that they did not misrepresent the condition of the property, the firm did pay for the installation of a sewer line to the house recently. Miss Givens indicated the work was valued at about $700.

Miss Givens still has some complaints over water accumulation on the property that apparently has been caused by another McKay-Nealis development adjacent to her property.

She said a representative of the company had offered to regrade the property so water would be drained onto other land, but she said this was unacceptable to her.

Miss Givens said she questioned the city giving approval to the adjacent development which caused water to accumulate on her property.

"I don't see why I should be left holding the bag on this," she added.

She said McKay-Nealis also has stated they would remove some trash that had been piled up near her property in the near future.

HOLDING ONTO every word is Maureen Warzynski, 4, as she holds her little brother Charles 2, who also seems to be engrossed in the half-hour story session.

Larger gun may be OKd for police

A change may be announced soon that would allow city policemen to carry 9mm automatic pistols as their service weapons rather than the standard .38 cal. revolver, said Police Chief Arthur Hintz.

"It's going to be optional," he said. "We've had a sergeant and two or three patrolmen who have carried them for about eight months on a trial basis. I've heard nothing negative."

Hintz said, however, he will wait to hear further reports from his men experimenting with the pistol before announcing any policy change.

Although the six-shot .38 revolver with the four inch barrel is the current regulation weapon for Des Plaines police, Hintz said a lot of his men prefer the 9mm, a larger, longer range, clip-loading gun that fires 15 rounds of ammunition automatically.

Current department policy calls for policemen to purchase their own service weapons and Hintz said city police electing to use the 9mm will have to pay for them out of their own pockets also.

Hintz also said a policeman will have to show "proficiency" on the police pistol range and have full knowledge of the weapon before being allowed to carry it.

"They have to handle proficiently the weapon they carry."

Hintz said he would not have approved of his policy carrying the 9mm several years ago for what he called a lack of safety features but said the weapon has been improved over the last few years, "to overcome the problems and dispel any fears I've had."

Financial boost for military pavilion?

Planners of the Des Plaines Military and Commemorative Committee's memorial pavilion could get an important financial boost tonight if the Des Plaines City Council approves a propoal to spend more than $11,000 on the project in 1975.

Ald. Robert Hinde, 4th, chairman of the city council's finance and insurance committee, said he will recommend the council adopt a measure to spend between $11,000 and $12,000 for electrical work on the proposed pavilion next year.

Hinde said he would recommend the city use a portion of its federal revenue-sharing funds to finance the project.

THE CONTRIBUTION to the memorial to local men and women who served in the military could enable construction of the pavilion and band shell, which will be located at Lake Park, to begin next summer.

The committee has been attempting to raise funds for the project since 1967. It had little success until early last year when the group began holding weekly bingo sessions.

The bingo games have enabled the committee to raise nearly $30,000 of the estimated $60,000 cost of the project.

Committee members said they hope to raise the rest of the money by next summer or possibly seek a loan to allow the start of construction.

Supporters of the project note the band shell will be available for community theater groups and other civic and social organizations for their activities.

IN ADDITION TO the proposal for the pavilion, the council also is expected to review two other measures which could raise considerable controversy.

The city code judiciary committee will recommend that the council accept a proposal to establish the position of city manager and make the mayor's position part-time.

The recommendation met stiff opposition last week during a committee meeting. A number of adlermen objected to the city manager concept, stating they did not believe a city manager would be responsive to the needs of the residents of Des Plaines.

The opponents of the manager proposal have suggested the city consider hiring a full-time administrative assistant to aid the mayor in the day-to-day operation of the city.

The council also will receive a recommendation which would allow the operation of establishments serving liquor within 100 feet of a church or a school.

Some church and school officials have voiced concerns about the change. Present city regulations require a 200-foot distance between taverns and churches or schools.

The meeting begins at 8 p.m. in the city hall.

Jay School boundary may be changed

A proposal to change a boundary for John Jay School in order to give some students a safer route to school, is scheduled to come before the Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education at its meeting at 8 p.m. today.

The boundary change would affect fewer than 20 students, Jay School Assistant Secretary Jan Schulz said.

The proposal involves putting a parcel of land now within Jay's boundaries, into Forest View School's boundaries.

THE LAND IS NORTH of Ill. Rte. 62, Heights Road and west of Goebbert Road. Parents of students living in that area have been concerned about their children having to cross busy Goebbert Road to get to school.

Students from that area who now go to Jay, and their younger brothers and sisters, may continue there, according to the proposal. However, any new families moving into the area would be assigned to Forest View. Both schools are in Mount Prospect.

The board also will hear a report from its boundary committee. The committee has been studying the effects new and planned apartment complexes would have on several Dist. 59 schools. It concluded that already overcrowded Jay School would be the only school to suffer and become even more crowded. However, the committee has not yet taken action on a boundary change.

The board will meet at the administration Building, 2123 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

Village, high school give up hope to preserve site

Hello bulldozers, goodbye artifacts

Bulldozers apparently will roll over several dirt mounds in Elk Grove Village said to contain prehistoric Indian artifacts 7,000 to 9,000 years old.

Both the Elk Grove Village Board and Elk Grove High School apparently have given up hope of preserving the site, located between Devon and Wellington avenues on the west side of the village.

An Elk Grove High School student found a mottled piece of stone in a field near his home in early 1973 and picked up what appeared to be half of some kind of an arrowhead.

The student took his find to his history teacher, Ronald Benes, who discovered it was the butt end of a spear point in what archeologists call the Clovis style. Clovis artifacts are generally dated between 8,000 and 15,000 years old.

BENES AND SOME of his students returned to the field and found other primitive stone tools, apparently left by people living in the area after the Wisconsin glacier receded.

The land, however, was owned by developer Joseph Zizzo who planned on building on the site as part of the Devon-53 project. High School Dist. 214 attorneys met with Zizzo to attempt to draw up an agreement allowing students to explore the property. At the same time village officials agreed to study the possibility of preventing the land from being developed.

Zizzo took the stand that there was not enough proof that artifacts were on his property and told officials he intended to develop the property.

"We have no interest whatsoever in the property any longer," said Robert Haskell, Elk Grove High School principal.

He said the piece of property became a "political football" and the school eventually gave up thoughts of acquiring it.

THE DEVON-53 project, including 267 acres of land owned by four developers, was rejected by both the village plan commission and the village board after months of arguments concerning what officials termed "poor planning."

The coalition of developers sought annexation to the village and approval of their plans for single family homes and apartment complexes. Last month the developers disbanded and decided to build on their own — with or without the village's annexation approval. Zizzo had already received Cook County zoning and has maintained he will build.

Village officials will not pursue a study of preserving the land, either, Village Mgr. Charles Willis said Friday. "It was in the hands of the high school and I understand they no longer are interested," he said.

Haskell said school district attorneys are continuing discussions with another developer on a second site, "but that, too, is involved in a situation much like this with builders blocking any chance of an archeological excavation."

Christ Church to mark 10th year Sunday

Christ Church of Des Plaines will celebrate its 10th year in the present church building Sunday.

Guest speakers at both worship services will be James Nissen and Norman Larson, who served as presidents of Christ Church during the construction and dedication of the new building.

The colonial-design red-brick building is located at the northwest corner of Cora and Henry streets. Designed by the Park Ridge architectural firm of Stade, Dolan, and Anders, the building was constructed in 1963-64. Hugo Dahm of Des Plaines was general chairman for the Building Committee for the church, which was built for $325,000 and is valued today at more than $600,000.

The original church was built in the same location in 1892 and served the congregation until it ws demolished in 1963 to make way for the present church. The bell from the original church was retained and placed in the bell chamber of the new steeple, where it still is used today.

Serving on the 10th Anniversary Committee are: Robert Bruhn, chairman; George Hensiek, Vernetta Hasselmann, John Benge, and Corinne Duerkop. They join the Rev. R. K. Wobbe, Pastor, and the Rev. James W. Jackson, associate pastor, and the members of Christ Church in welcoming all interested persons to the anniversary worship services at 9 a.m. and 10:30 a.m.

Violent storm winds cause severe damage

A Herald Staff report

A short-lived but fierce storm ripped through the Northwest suburbs Sunday afternoon, causing severe roof damage to an apartment complex in Palatine Township and knocking a house under construction from its foundation in Elk Grove Village. Wind damage and power failure were reported throughout the area.

The pace of the storm was swift and could be traced through fire department alarms as the high winds and rain marched through northern Schaumburg Township, through Palatine, and down Northwest Highway through Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Des Plaines. Firemen in virtually all suburban communities were put on alert in the early afternoon in response to calls of downed trees and power lines.

One measure of the storm's suddenness was the temperature, which dropped from 95 degrees to 68 degrees in the space of 30 minutes while the storm rolled through the area.

• SOME OF THE severe damage was reported at the English Valley apartment on Dundee Road in Palatine Township.

The roof was torn off six apartments at 1528 King Edwart Ct. Each apartment had extensive rain damage.

There were no injuries and a spokesman for the complex said persons living in the damaged units would be moved to other quarters.

One resident of the complex said she observed the rear end of a large late model automobile lift off the ground by the forrce of the storm just before the roof section was torn off.

"The car just lifted up and I actually saw the car lift up and drop back down," said Mrs. Adeline Gervasi, a resident there.

Other tenants in the damaged building reported water running down through the walls and into electrical fixtures.

• Gusts of 60 miles an hour were recorded at O'Hare International Airport, strong enough to unroof two freight buildings and to spin a parked Northwest Orient Airlines 747 jetliner, damaging a wing of the plane and a passenger walkway struck by the wing. Another plane — an Ozark DC-9 — was struck by lightning as it taxied from the terminal, but was not damaged. Much minor damage also was reported at the airport, but no injuries.

• IN ELK GROVE Village, tornado-like winds lifted a house under construction completely off its foundation on Leicester Lane near Wellington.

Mrs. Joseph Cimono said she and her husband and children were on their way to the nearly completed house to close the windows in the house after the rains came and a branch from a tree fell and nearly hit their car. Moments later, the winds uprooted the house from the foundation.

Severe damage also was caused to Becher Precision Equipment, 55 E. Randall, when winds ripped part of the roof from the plant.

Roofing, insulation, wooden beams and an air conditioning unit were strewn all over an empty lot just south of the building.

• IN PALATINE there were several reports of trees damaged by the high winds and an apparent storm-related electrical fire at Arlington Park Dodge auto sales center on Northwest Highway. An Arlington Park Dodge official said winds swept off pieces of the roofing, smashing more than a half dozen cars. He called damage "severe" but could make no immediate damage estimate. A large tree broken in half blocked the road at Glencoe Road and Greenwood Avenue.

• THERE WAS only minor damage in Rolling Meadows and Police Chief Lewis Case said there were no reports of major storm-related incidents.

Power lines were reported downed throughout the area.

• IN ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, lines were down at 400 W. Wing, lashing sparks across the street there. Electrical problems also were reported at 1300 N. Arlington Heights Road and 313 N. Brighton. A tree was knocked across Arlington Heights Road blocking traffic near the intersection of Thomas Street. Several storm-related automobile accidents were reported.

• SCHAUMBURG firemen responded to calls of electrical lines damaged at 333 Lexington Dr., and 38 N. Roselle Rd. At the Woodfield Shopping Center, lights were off in many stores and lack of electricity meant cash registers would not work. Customers still made purchases with cash or check.

• AUTHORITIES in Des Plaines reported only a few minor power outages and weather-related damage.

• Mount Prospect police estimated 20,000 of the town's residents were without electricity for a while in the afternoon. Police said trees fell in different areas of the village and severed power lines, causing the damage.

DISTRICT OF Columbia policemen and U.S. marshals crouch behind parked cars outside U.S. District Court House Sunday moments after seven hostages escaped the two convicts that had been holding them.

Hostages escape, convicts stall in Washington jail

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two convicts barricaded in a federal courthouse cellblock for more than three days, stalled on a surrender agreement Sunday that came after seven hostages escped with a key smuggled them in a box of sanitary napkins, authorities said.

The hostages escaped about 10 a.m. Sunday by sneaking into an elevator they operated with the smuggled key while convict Frank Gorham slept and Robert Jones "was plainly duped" into talking on the telephone.

Federal officials said the convicts first agreed to surrender and be transported by plane to a federal penitentiary somewhere in the U.S. But then they made new demands the government could not accept.

The convicts demanded that a newsman go into the cellblock before they surrendered. Jones told radio station WASH he feared for his life if he surrendered without witnesses.

But John Russell, Justice Department spokesman, indicated the government believed the two convicts, now alone except for a woman prisoner who had stayed behind when not told about the escape attempt, might be looking for new hostages.

He said the newsmen would not be allowed into the cellblock because authorities wanted to avoid any "potential hostages." But he said one newsman, Jim Vance of WRC-TV, and an attorney had talked with the convicts through a door.

"There's progress up to a point and then there is no progess," said Russell. "We're waiting for them to come out. I can't go beyond that."

He disclosed that a teargas canister had accidentally been discharged in the cellblock area during the morning, but officers went in and got it out and calm was restored.

The escape plan was devised during a series of telephone conversations the convicts had allowed their hostages to have with authorities and relatives.

Meanwhile, in New York City about 150 inmates took over a floor of the Queens House of Detention Sunday after a fight in which three guards were injured, but later locked themselves back in their cells and the institution was declared secure. No hostages were taken by the inmates.

U.S. MARSHAL Calvin Mouton holds up keys to Washington, D.C., cellblock where he and six other persons were held hostage by two convicts since Tuesday. The hostages escaped Sunday when the convicts fell asleep.

Cement strike may end this week

The two-month cement truck drivers' strike which has stifled work on Chicago-area construction projects may be ended late this week.

Final settlement of the dispute between drivers and the Northern Illinois Ready Mix and Material Assn. hinges on the membership vote by some 2,500 workers in Cook and seven surrounding counties.

The final language of the proposed settlement will be worked out today.

The proposed settlement, reached Friday afternoon, followed a three-day bargaining session at the Hyatt House in Oakbrook.

Negotiators included representatives of Local 786 of the Teamsters Union and seven other locals in the Chicago area, the Ready Mix group, and federal mediators. The strike halted work on some $100 million in Northern Illinois construction projects, including Dundee Road in the Northwest suburbs.

Once source said the tentative agreement calls for increases in wages and benefits to cement truck drivers to $10.50 an hour over a three-year life of the contract.

THE STRIKE, which began May 15, is among several factors which boosted claims filed for unemployment compensation in the state of Illinois within the past two months. Work stoppages downstate and at the Chrysler Plant in Belvidere, and the seasonal influx of summer workers also contributed to the figures.

The Illinois Labor Dept. bureau of employment security's preliminary figures for June indicate 88,626 insured claims were filed for the month. This compares with 73,319 claims filed in May. No figures are available from the department for the Chicago metropolitan area.

Total unemployment in the state of Illinois reached 209,000 or 4.1 per cent of the labor force in May. In June the estimated state unemployment figures climbed to 238,000 or 4.6 per cent.

Chicago metropolitan area unemployment figures averaged lower than the state and federal average reports. The 4.4 per cent Chicago region unemployment rate in June (representing 148,000 persons) compares to 3.7 per cent (125,000) persons in May. The region includes Cook, Lake, DuPage, McHenry, Kane and Will counties.

The overall unemployment rate in the U.S. during May amounted to 5.2 per cent, with some 5,380,000 unemployed workers. The preliminary June report indicates that the rate has climbed to 5.8 per cent.

Consumer, strip mining fights ahead

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress this week will consider two major pieces of legislation destined to stir heavy controversy: creation of a new Consumer Protection Agency and establishment of controls on strip mining.

Virginia Knauer, President Nixon's consumer adviser, said Sunday the proposal for a Consumer Protection Agency coming before the Senate is the most important consumer measure in her five years on the job.

In a last-minute plea for passage against opposition from big business, Mrs. Knauer said the CPA would be a "powerful antidote to the poison of alienation and helplessness affecting many of our citizens who believe that their pleas for help or understanding are unheeded . . . that only the big and powerful have access to decision makers."

Legislation to create the agency has passed the House and is scheduled for Senate consideration sometime this week. It faces a filibuster such as one that killed the CPA proposal two years ago in the Senate. Forces on both sides say the attempt to cut off debate this time could pass or fail by one or two votes.

The House plans major debate this week on a bill providing strip mining controls which the coal industry says are too tough and environmentalists say are not strong enough.

The House passed a strong strip mining bill two years ago only to see it die in the Senate. This time, the Senate acted first, approving its version last October.

Debate is tentatively scheduled to begin Tuesday, with an Interior Committee-approved bill and two major substitute bills all to be discussed. In addition, nearly 200 amendments have been formally proposed for possible floor debate.

The legislation is the outgrowth of years of uncontrolled surface mining, mostly in Appalachia, which left the hillsides scarred and unattended. Now the coal industry, boosted by the need for more domestic energy sources, is turning its bulldozers and giant shovels to untapped areas of the Great Plains.

The committee-approved bill would require most stripped land to be restored to its "approximate original contour," and outlines a number of other restrictions.

Judiciary unit near end

From United Press International

The House Judiciary Committee expects this week to release another batch of evidence relating to the possible impeachment of President Nixon — giving the public about all the information that panel members now have.

Heading into the final stages of its impeachment inquiry, the Judiciary Committee plans to call its final two witnesses this week and then launch into a lengthy series of strategy sessions to determine how the final debate will be conducted on impeachment articles.

Depending on the outcome of strategy sessions Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, the committee may be prepared for a final vote on impeachment during the week of July 22, or possibly the week of July 29.

Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., confirmed Sunday that evidence of possible perjury by witnesses before the Senate Watergate committee investigators has been turned over to the special prosecutor's office. He also said he believed that a Watergate cover-up was continuing in the White House.

Meanwhile, the President spent Sunday relaxing with his family at his estate in San Clemente, Calif.

Nixon now plans to devote his attention to the economy, with a national address on the subject planned for sometime in the next 10 days. Vice President Gerald Ford said the basic plan is to cut the federal budget substantially, backing up the policy with vetoes of congressional spending efforts.

A White House official said Sunday that Nixon also has reaffirmed that he — not Secretary of State Henry Kissinger — was responsible for the wiretapping of 17 officials and newsmen suspected of national security leaks during his first term.

The President sent a letter to Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, restating his view following a crop of rumors in Washington that a rift was developing between Kissinger and the White House over failure of Nixon to come to his defense.

FRENCH JETS, streaming red, white and blue smoke, fly past the Bastille Column topped by the Liberty Genius to open the aerial show for Bastille Day celebrations in Paris Sunday. President Valery Giscard d'Estaing changed the site of the military parade from the fashionable Champs Elysee Avenue to the revolutionary Bastille Square as part of his declared policy to make France more democratic.

Military air pioneer Gen. Spaatz dead

• Aviation pioneer Gen. Carl "Tooey" Spaatz the first Air Force chief of staff—died Sunday of congestive heart failure at Washington's Walter Reed Medical Center. Spaatz, 83, was one of the nation's early airmen, a pursuit pilot in World War I credited with downing three German Fokker planes, and a general in World War II who with Gen. H. H. Arnold guided the United States to its air superiority over Germany and Japan. Spaatz supervised the final B29 runs over Japan and was present at all signings of unconditional surrender by the Germans and Japanese.

• If amateur flier John Edwards is right, the long search for the final resting place of famed American band leader Glenn Miller may be over. Edwards says he's found the wreckage of a U.S. Air Force plane like the one in which

Glenn Miller

Miller disappeared nearly 30 years ago in the English Channel. It's in 200 feet of water about 12½ miles south of the coastal of Dymchurch, which would be about the right spot, and it may be brought to the surface next June. Miller vanished with two others on a Dec. 15, 1944, flight from England to France in low clouds and heavy fog.

• Some of the new enthusiasm over George Wallace got a dash of cold water Sunday from Clarence Mitchell, NAACP director in Washington. Putting the Alabama governor on their national ticket in 1976 — said Mitchell — would be the best way for Democrats to lose black support.

• Another shoe dropped on John Ehrlichman Sunday — two days after the former Nixon aide was convicted for his part in the 1971 burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist. Cleary S. Cone, the head of the bar association in the state of Washington—where Ehrlichman makes his home — said the perjury and conspiracy convictions will lead to the temporary suspension from his practice of law in the state, and an investigation into whether he should be permanently disbarred.

• International sick call: Prime Minister Souvanna Phouma of Laos, stricken with a heart attack Friday, is reported resting comfortably at home, but needing at least two months to recover — touching off the prospect of struggle for control of the country's coalition government . . . Spain's Generalissimo Francisco Franco, 81, remains on the mend from an attack of phlebitis in his right leg, touching off reports that heir-apparent Prince Juan Carlos will stand in for him at Thursday's national holiday ceremonies.

He mentioned that sale in connection with the 1972 wheat deal and a proposal to build wide-bodied jets in the Soviet Union, and declared "If this is detente, it's going to kill us."

Wheel tax may get another court test

The Cook County wheel tax, levied on cars of residents in unincorporated areas, may have to face one more court test.

The Cook County Congress of Homeowners Associations is asking the U.S. Supreme Court to consider the legality of the tax and reverse the Illinois Supreme Court's decision that the tax is constitutional.

A petition asking the federal court to hear the case was filed June 27. Cook County has until July 26 to file an answer to the petition before the U.S. Supreme Court will decide whether to hear the case.

Individual homeowners have contributed more than $900 to help finance the fight, said Albert Sompolski, of the homeowners' congress, but additional contributions may be needed if the court agrees to consider the case.

The arguments used by the homeowners to oppose the tax would hinge on the right of a government to use home rule powers to tax only a portion of its citizens while using the tax revenues for services to all of its citizens.

"It's taxation without representation," Sompolski said, pointing out that the homeowners' congress turned to the appeal to "give the little man some resort."

LWV to study courts

The Illinois League of Women Voters has received a $50,000 grant from the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission to study misdemeanor courts in Cook and three other counties.

The LWV will use the funds for training of volunteers who will moniter and collect daily court information. This information will include the number and percentage of "victimless" crime cases, number and reasons for continuances, courtroom procedures and facilities, treatment of persons who appear in court and conduct of judges and court personnel.

The LWV, which will pay $5,556 for part of the study, designed the program in response to evidence of growing dissatisfaction with the criminal justice system, LWV president Donna Schiller said.

Volunteers will be recruited and trained by paid attorneys. Monitors will be chosen to obtain a cross-section of each community, including representatives from civic, professional, religious, business and minority groups, as well as retired persons and college students.

By June 30, 1975, the project staff will have collected basic data affecting administration of court justice. After the data is analyzed, the staff will recommend changes.

$78 million bond fund to aid development of coal reserves

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — Here is a rundown on major legislation approved by the Illinois General Assembly Thursday and sent to Gov. Daniel Walker's desk:

• Energy. Both houses passed a program to set up a $78 million bond fund to help finance development of the state's coal reserves and to seek new sources of energy. The plan calls for $10 million to be spent in the new fiscal year. It also creates a legislative commission that must approve all projects funded under the program, and an advisory council chaired by the governor with the lieutenant governor sitting as vice chairman.

• Dept. of Correction. Both houses approved the department's $81.6 million appropriation that includes provisions to maintain the River Oaks juvenile corrections facility at Joliet. Lawmakers refused to turn the facility into an adult minimum-security prison.

• Dept. of Agriculture. The $21.7 million appropriation gives the governor a choice of selecting the site for a new animal diagnostic laboratory at either Kewanee or Galesburg. The bill provides funds for both facilities.

• Dept. of Revenue. The $272.3 million appropriation includes funds for some 200,000 state income tax refund checks held up since June 30 when the department's old appropriation ran out.

• Secretary of State. The Senate gave final approval to the $93 million appropriation that assures that some 4,000 employs of the Secretary of State will be paid on time this month. The House passed the bill Wednesday.

• Mental health. Both houses approved a $355.4 million appropriation for the state Dept. of Mental Health.

• Mass transit. The House rejected an attempt to tie up funds for the Regional Transit Authority. Backers of the measure said it was "the last chance for freedom" for the five Chicago-area counties that oppose the RTA.

Oakton VP renamed to national panel

David E. Hilquist, vice president for business and finance at Oakton Community College, Morton Grove, has been reappointed to the two-year college committee of the National Assn. of College and University Business Officers for 1974-75.

Hilquist, a member of the committee since July, 1973, has specialized in the needs of two-year colleges. He served as Oakton's business affairs manager from August, 1972, until being named to his present post July 1.

NIPC endorses retention basin federal grant

A $1.3 million retention basin intended to help relieve flooding in Arlington Heights, Des Plaines and Mount Prospect was given a boost when it was endorsed for a federal grant by the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission.

The NIPC planning committee last week lent its support to the attempt to secure $975,000 toward construction of the basin north of Central Road near Busse Road in Mount Prospect.

The NIPC endorsement does not assure the project of federal funding, but if NIPC failed to approve the basin, its chances of obtaining a federal grant would have been virtually nil.

AS IT IS, the grant application is not expected to be acted on by the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency for awhile. James S. Braxton, assistant chief, engineer of the Metropolitan Sanitary District, which will build the basin, described the project as having "low priority" among flood control measures.

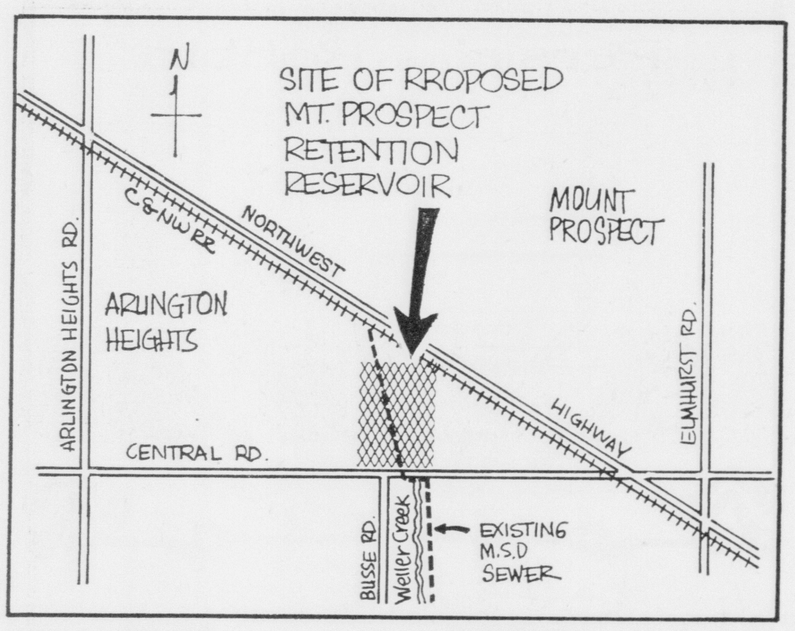
The basin, which will lie on Weller Creek, is designed to reduce flooding by storing 130 acre-feet of storm water runoff, equivalent to a volume of 130 acres in area, one foot deep.

By storing the water, the basin would lower the flow of Weller Creek and the Des Plaines River, making them less likely to overflow their banks during storms.

THE BASIN IS considered a temporary flood control measure, with plans proceeding for expansion to 850 acre-feet at a later date. The sanitary district has not yet acquired the 70-acre site.

The federal grant, if awarded, would cover three-quarters of the projected cost of the first phase of basin construction. The sanitary district would pay the remaining one-quarter, or $325,000, while the villages of Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect, would be responsible for picking up the tab for a storm sewer connected to the basin.

Frank Kudrna, supervising engineer in MSD's flood control division, said paperwork for the project has been approved by the sanitary district and by Arlington Heights, but has not yet been acted on by Mount Prospect. Mount Prospect Mayor Robert D. Teichert said he was "not aware that anyone's waiting on us." The village had previously endorsed the project.



HERE'S WHERE THE retention basin planned by the Metropolitan Sanitary District is to be built. The basin is intended to help prevent flooding in Arlington Heights, Des Plaines and Mount Prospect.

Must refund $18,256 for price gouging

Gas station ordered to cut prices

A Prospect Heights service station has been ordered by the federal government to roll back prices in order to repay consumers more than $18,000 that was overcharged during the past seven months.

A spokesman for the Federal Energy Office said Friday that the operators of M and M Texaco Service Station, 4 N. River Rd., has been ordered to roll back prices four cents per gallon as a result of a price gouging charge made by the FEO.

The spokesman said investigators determined the operators of the station had been charging four cents more than the allowed price from November, 1973, until last month.

UNDER THE FEO order, the station will be required to sell regular gas for no more than 50.4 cents per gallon and premium gas for no more than 53.3 cent per gallon until $18,256 has been refunded to customers.

The rollback went into effect last week, the government spokesman said.

Juanita Leiss of the FEO said the price rollback procedure is used because the government has no way of knowing who the customers of the station were and consequently who would be entitled to refund because of the overpricing. She noted the FEO is still handling a backlog of complaints which were made several months ago when gas was scarce.

"We are still receiving complaints and will continue to investigate the charges as they are received," she said.

The operator of the Texaco station said he was not aware he had been violating government regulations.

"I was only charging the same as other stations around. I still could pump a lot more gas than allocated," he said. The operator refused to identify himself.

Roast planned at benefit dinner

A "roast," a good-natured and witty teasing of a personality, will be a featured part of the dinner program at the Neil Cooney Open Aug. 7. The Cooney Cup will be presented to the winner of the tournament during the evening festivities.

Emergency room facilities at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village, will benefit from the third annual golf event. In 1973 the hospital's building fund received a $1,300 contribution from the proceeds of the event.

Cooney, an Elk Grove community leader, is former president of the Bank of Elk Grove. He is now president of the Plum Grove Bank, 2701 Algonquin Rd., Rolling Meadows. Cooney, vice chairman of the board of trustees of the medical center, served on the Lay Advisory Board for five years previous to being elected a trustee.

The outing will be held at Nordic Hills Country Club with tee-off times being scheduled between 7 a.m. and noon. Cocktails are set for 7 p.m. with dinner following at 8 p.m.

Reservations for golf, $15 per person, and dinner, $17.50 per person, may be made with the fund-raising office at the hospital, 437-5500, ext. 453.

Lutheran Bible classes slated for Aug. 5 opening

Immanuel Lutheran's Vacation Bible School classes will be taught Aug. 5 through 16. Classes will meet Monday through Fridays from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Children four years old through eighth grade are invited to attend the classes which will be held at Immanuel School, 832 Lee St.

Activities will include a Bible study lesson, music, craft, special outings for the upper grades and a daily drawing for a Children's Living Bible prize. A fee of $2 will be charged to cover the cost of materials.

A bus will pick up children at the following school locations: Devonshire, Einstein, High Ridge Knolls, Brentwood and Terrace. A daily one hour Bible class for the mothers of Vacation Bible School students and all other interested adults will be conducted by the Rev. Baumann. This will be followed with an adult art class with a fee of $2 for materials.

For those with younger children a rotating sitters service by mothers and aids will be provided. There are no facilities for infants.

Teen fined $225 in theft of lumber

One man has been ordered to pay $225 in fines and court costs and was placed on a year's probation while a 17-year-old youth was given six months supervision in the theft of $300 worth of lumber in Des Plaines last month.

The two, William Radamacher, 30, of 220 Andrew Ln., Schaumburg, and Donald Schroeder, 221 Graylynn Dr., Mount Prospect, appeared Thursday in the Des Plaines branch of Circuit Court before Associate Judge John Gannon.

Both were appearing on theft charges. Radamacher pleaded guilty while Schroeder stipulated to the facts of the case, but there was no finding of guilt.

Both were arrested after police said they stole the lumber from the Des Plaines Lumber Yard, First Avenue and Thacker Street, June 8, and were stopped a short distance away with the lumber in a pickup truck.

Firms offer kidnap insurance for bonded workers

Business today

by LEROY POPE

NEW YORK — An Indiana banker was tricked into paying $95,000 to an extortionist who hoaxed him into believing he had kidnaped his wife.

Two extortionists collected $50,000 from a Tulsa bank president after actually holding his wife and four children for seven hours.

A clerk in a Los Angeles broker's office and the manager of a Connecticut food market paid smaller sums to extortionists who used guns to threaten their families.

The growth of extortion by grass roots criminals, rather than the pros of organized crime, has caused casualty insurance companies to start offering extortion coverage as a reasonably priced rider to financial institution bonds.

SINCE NEARLY ALL victims of these extortionist crimes are executives or trusted employes who normally are bonded, the Insurance Information Institute says the new coverage should solve the question of who ultimately must pay the ransom cost.

When someone telephones a banker or business executive to say that his wife has been kidnaped and will be killed unless he delivers $50,000 in two or three hours, his first instict is to borrow the money from the bank and worry about how to pay it back after his wife is safe.

The Insurance Information Institute said that while banking and corporation lawyers tended to consider that the standard bonding coverage was broad enough to cover extortion losses, there was some question about the matter. "The new rider removes that uncertainty," the institute said. "Where it is purchased, the bonding company must pay regardless of whether the kidnap or bombing threat used to extort the money is genuine or a hoax."

Simply stated, the extortion rider provides coverage for losses away from the insured's office or premises as a result of a threat of physical harm to a director or employe of the insured or any relative or either who is allegedly being held captive.

IN MANY CASES, the success of the extortion threat depends psychologically on the victims panicking and failing to take a simple step that would expose the hoax.

The case of the St. Louis banker was typical. A telephone call informed him that his wife had been kidnaped and would be killed unless the money was delivered promptly and that a bomb had been planted in his bank and would be detonated.

When he phoned his home and didn't get an answer, the banker paid. Later he learned that a man claiming to be a telephone company official had phoned his wife and advised her not to answer her phone for the next hour because the line was being worked on. Nor was any bomb found in the bank.

A different wrinkle was used to extort $30,000 from the Cleveland banker. The first call simply instructed him in ominous tones to "call home." He called and a man answered, saying he had the banker's wife and would kill her unless the money was delivered at a designated spot. The banker paid, only to learn later that his wife was working at her job in an insurance office as usual. A phone call to her office would have exposed the hoax.

He plants 2 new ideas for office decor

by LEA TONKIN

Ever since his mother taught him to love plants, says architect Don Erickson, he's liked growing things. Maybe that's why he designed a vest pocket jungle in the heart of a Des Plaines office building. If Erickson's ideas are widely accepted, it could mean an end to the ho-hum of traditional office design.

We live in a generally barren environment, said softspoken Erickson as he discussed the concept of interior space at the new LeRonde office building, 950 Lee St., Des Plaines, last week. Greenery and sunshine are things the suburban office worker can only enjoy a few months of the year after they leave work, he said.

If Erickson has his way, the office jungle will be something to look forward to in the future. Instead of congestion and sameness it will mean a greening of the office landscape.

IN THE THREE-STORY LeRonde buildings, for example, visitors enter a lower level devoted to parking, lobby area and landscaping. A free standing glass elevator and circular stairs lead to the second and third levels.

A 60-foot diameter courtyard dominates the entire office area on the upper levels. It's a 45-foot high atrium where huge live plants are suspended on chains from the ceiling and sunshine filters through skylights.

Erickson, enthused about the vines that will eventually climb to the skylights, said "This will become more and more of a jungle every day." He added jokingly that he'd have to hire someone to chop away the undergrowth with a machete when the plants mature.

Year-round greenery and a double window exposure are an "attempt to make the occupant aware of the interior environment," Erickson explained. An introverted building which focuses attention and interest within every office space on the surroundings, Le Ronde represents a break with the past. Instead of a flashy exterior and bleak office design that characterizes many office buildings, Erickson looks to increased interest inside and out.

THE BIGGEST obstacles to this office greenery concept are tradition and money, he said. Developers usually want to use the same office building plans that were successful in the past. And there is the bugaboo of wasted space and dollars for the earnings-conscious investor.

Erickson believes that the dollars and cents of competitive rental rates ($6.85 a square foot on an annual basis) overcome this opposition. The reason: good planning enables the architect to design an 80 per cent efficiency (20 per cent of the space used for lobby, etc.). The average efficiency is 76 to 82 per cent, said Erickson.

If this office building is as successful as he thinks it will be, says Erickson, his firm of Erickson & Stevens will next launch a larger project that "will make this one look sterile."

Matter delayed until September meeting

Harper board refuses to seat faculty senate head

by WANDALYN RICE

Harper College Faculty Senate Pres. Robert Powell walked out on the Harper Board of Trustees Thursday after the board voted to delay seating him as an ex-officio member of the board.

The board's action came in a 5 to 1 vote on a motion by board member Jessalyn Nicklas to delay seating the faculty senate president until at least the September meeting to allow research on a list of questions Mrs. Nicklas said she has about the faculty position.

The board last month voted 4 to 2, with Mrs. Nicklas absent, to seat the faculty member in an advisory capacity to the board. At the time, proponents of the board seat said the position would improve communications between the board and faculty and would allow the faculty senate president to participate in discussion of academic issues. Board member Lawrence Moats was the lone dissenter Thursday to the delay. Board member Robert Rausch was absent.

THE BOARD'S ACTION Thursday came immediately following a board committee-of-the-whole meeting with the faculty grievance committee at which Board Pres. William Kelly told the faculty that changes in the grievance procedure must come either through administrative recommendation or through collective bargaining between the board and a faculty union.

Friday, Powell said he thought the board's combined action on the faculty seat and the grievance policy "strengthens the pro-union position (on the faculty) greatly." He added, "I walked out of the place because I saw no reason to stay."

As president of the faculty senate, Powell has opposed any effort on the part of the faculty to form a union at the college, saying he does not feel it is in the best interests of the school.

Powell said Friday he was "surprised" by the board action delaying his seating on the board. "Our understanding was that when it (the faculty seat) was granted last time, it was granted."

The board's meeting with the faculty grievance committee had been arranged after the committee appeared before the board in June for the third consecutive month. The committee has asked the board beginning in April to consider changes in the grievance procedures at the college because of problems with long delays of grievances.

AT THE JUNE meeting, board member Shirley Munson asked for the committee meeting with the grievance committee to discuss its members' recommendations.

Among the recommendations being made by the faculty committee is one calling for specific time limits on various stages of the grievance procedure. In addition, the committee is asking for an ombudsman to work with faculty and administration to try to settle grievances before they are formally filed and for binding arbitration to be used if a grievance is not settled through procedures within the college.

Grievance committee chairman Janet Savin said the changes are necessary because resolution of grievances has been delayed under the present policy. A grievance during the past school year on the college evaluation policy took five months of hearings.

Miss Savin said the grievance committee believes binding arbitration is necessary in the grievance procedure because it would speed up the process and give both sides an incentive to settle the problem.

KELLY TOLD MISS Savin that he considers "negotiation" of the grievance policy between the faculty and board to be something that should be taken up during full scale negotiations between the two sides. He said, "It's not appropriate to negotiate the grievance procedure with the faculty piecemeal."

In addition, R. Thomas Clark, Jr., an attorney hired by the board to advise them on the issue, said, "I'm unaware of any grievance procedure ending in binding arbitration that is not part of a collective bargaining agreement."

Kelly also said if the faculty does not want a full collective bargaining agreement, its other avenue of communication with the board is by "input through the administration," with faculty and administrators presenting a package proposal to the board.

A recommendation to the board from College Pres. Robert Lahti has been that the grievance procedure should be studied further.

FACULTY MEMBER Thomas McCabe, a former faculty senate president who has served as spokesman for the board in annual salary negotiations, said Kelly's position "puts us between a rock and a hard place" because the board has "repeatedly narrowed" the scope of faculty negotiations and has refused to negotiate issues such as class size or the grievance procedure.

Board members ended the discussion of the grievance procedure by agreeing with a suggestion by board member Lawrence Moats that the board discuss the faculty proposals in closed session because "we're talking about a process of negotiation." By law, boards can hold closed sessions for collective bargaining.

Friday, however, Powell said the faculty does not consider the grievance procedure a collective bargaining issue.

"This is not collective bargaining with the faculty — it is a suggestion for an improvement of a policy for the college." He said the original grievance procedure also "was not won through a collective bargaining."

Harper won't have to limit building plans

Harper College will be able to build its planned vocational education buildings without making drastic cuts in the building design.

Harper officials reported to the college board of trustees last week that the Illinois Capital Development Board is in the process of adopting new guidelines on construction costs that are "much more realistic" than earlier guidelines. The ICDB is the agency that supervises construction at state community colleges, with the state paying approximately 75 per cent of the building costs.

Harper officials had earlier reported they were afraid it would be nearly impossible to build the planned buildings under ICDB guidelines limiting costs to $30 per square foot. Architects for the college had said that even a major redesign of the buildings, which contain laboratories and specialized facilities for vocational courses, might not get costs under the $30 per square foot guidelines.

Donald Misic, director of business services for the college, said the new guidelines will not set a flat limit on per square foot costs. Instead, the guidelines will allow larger amounts of money for specialized laboratories and other facilities. In addition, he said, the guidelines will contain a "cost of living" escalator to compensate for rising construction costs.

ICCB OK sought for site

The Harper Board of Trustees officially asked the Illinois Community College Board for approval of the college's proposed second campus last week.

The board passed a resolution asking the ICCB to approve the site on Palatine and Schoenbeck roads in Arlington Heights for purchase by the college.

The ICCB staff now will study the issue and sometime in the next few months will recommend an action. The ICCB action will have to be followed by endorsements of the second campus by the Illinois Board of Higher Education and Capital Development Board before the college can buy the land.

The Arlington Heights Village Board last month agreed to set aside the proposed site on its zoning plan for the college, over the protests of the Mayo Foundation, which owns the land. The village board said it would review the zoning action in six months to see if the college was making progress toward purchasing the property.

Park program in jeopardy?

Full operation of the new Harper College park management program may be jeopardized this fall because of problems with finding someone to head the program.

College officials told the board of trustees last week that Kent W. Kurtz, who was hired last month as coordinator for the program, has decided not to take the job. Kurtz is an associate professor in the park and grounds operations management program at California State Polytechnic University.

Robert Cormack, dean of career education at the college, said Kurtz decided not to take the job afer investigating the costs of moving to Illinois. Cormack said he is now looking for applicants for the job and still hopes to fill the position by fall.

However, he said if he cannot find a full-time coordinator for the program, he may set up a partial class schedule using part-time teachers and delay the start of the program until next year.

The park management program has been developed by Harper in cooperation with local park district, who say the program will help them get trained personnel.

Prostate-gland surgery may need to be repeated

The doctor says

by Dr. Lawrence E. Lamb

I am 70. Ten years ago I had a transurethral operation on my prostate gland. A month ago I had the same operation. The doctor who operated on me said that it is not unusual to have the growth again. He said that I did not have a tumor. I am in good health but don't relish the idea of going through the same operation again sometime in the future. Can you give me more information on this subject?

Can't say I blame you. The prostate gland is literally like a donut surrounding the urethra just outside the bladder. As the prostate enlarges it fills up the hole in the donut and compresses the urethra. That is what causes the symptoms of urinary obstruction. The transurethral operation inserts an instrument through the urethra to the area of the prostate. By boring out the hole with the instrument the obstruction is relieved. This operation does not remove all the prostate gland, but enough to adequately remove the obstruction. The boring out procedure is usually pretty generous to try to prevent the recurrence of the obstruction.

Since the prostate gland is still there, if it continues to enlarge, eventually it can begin to fill up the hole in the donut again. When this happens the doctor has to either do another "bore job" or surgically cut out the prostate. If the operation is done fairly late in life, and if the prostate doesn't continue to enlarge too rapidly, then it may last a person for their life span, otherwise the problem may recur.

I can't guarantee you that you won't need another operation, but there is a good chance that your present operation should last at least as long as the last one, or more than 10 years. Your prostate gland growth may now be slowing a bit too, which could work in your favor.

My sister has very white teeth and claims it is because she uses baking soda and salt instead of toothpaste. What do you think about this? Is it all right? And, she claims that you can improve your teeth also by using peroxide as a mouthwash every hour all day long. Couldn't that be harmful?

There are many substances you can use to polish the teeth, and they will make the teeth whiter. But, that doesn't mean the teeth will be healthier. Pumice, a fine gritty abrasive, is used by dentists in polishing your teeth. However, you shouldn't use it regularly, because it is abrasive enough to wear your teeth down.

The same can be said about soda and salt. They may clean your teeth, but they may take part of the teeth away with the food particles and stains. So, whiteness doesn't mean healthy teeth. I believe you would be much better off to use commercially tested and approved toothpastes that contain materials to protect against tooth decay.

Peroxide as a mouthwash may not cause any harm if it is not too strong. If you use a strong solution you can burn the sensitive gingiva (gums) and damage them. I would definitely think that once an hour would run the risk of damaging tissues. The important thing in dental hygiene is just to clean the teeth well and optimally to clean them after each time you eat. In special instances the gums need to be massaged and stimulated. If you do these things nature will do most of the rest for you.

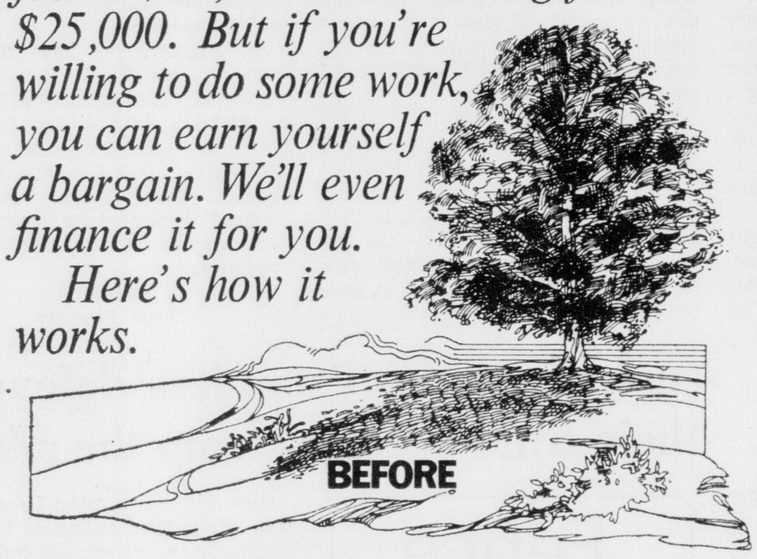
ANNOUNCING THE FINISH-IT-YOURSELF HOUSE

These days, you're not likely to find a $40,000 house selling for $25,000. But if you're willing to do some work, you can earn yourself a bargain. We'll even finance it for you.

Here's how it works.



CHOOSE YOUR LOCATION

First, decide on the area where you'd like to live. Then find a nice piece of property and buy it.

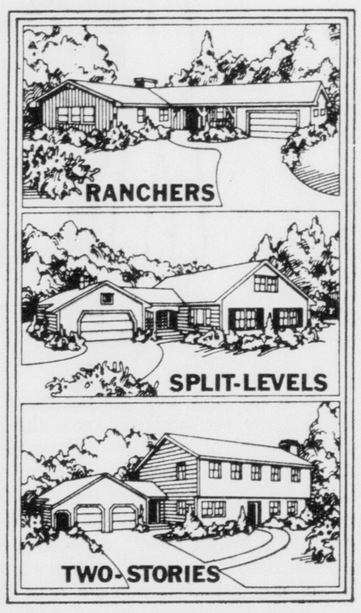
Suitable building lots can range from a few hundred dollars on up, depending on size and location.

CUSTOMIZE THE HOUSE PLANS

Choose one of our 78 designs. You can modify the plans to suit your family size, your way of living, and your budget.

You also select the roofing, siding, and all the interior appointments such as kitchen and bath accessories, doors, windows, flooring, lighting fixtures and so forth.

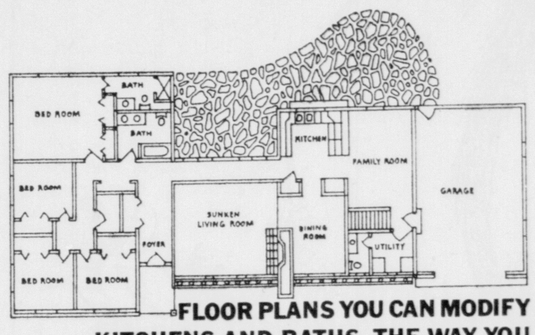
This way, you can make your home just what you want it to be.



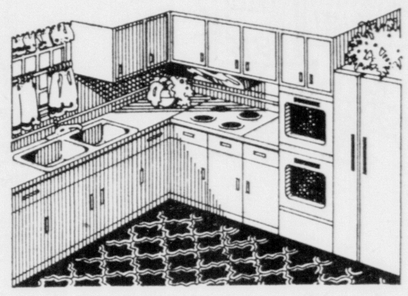
OLD-FASHIONED CONSTRUCTION

We do the heavy construction and completely enclose your home.

You'll find that we don't compromise on quality. Our materials and building specifications are considered old-fashioned in this day of the jerry-built wonder, but that doesn't bother us. We've been building quality homes for almost 30 years and we're too proud to change now.



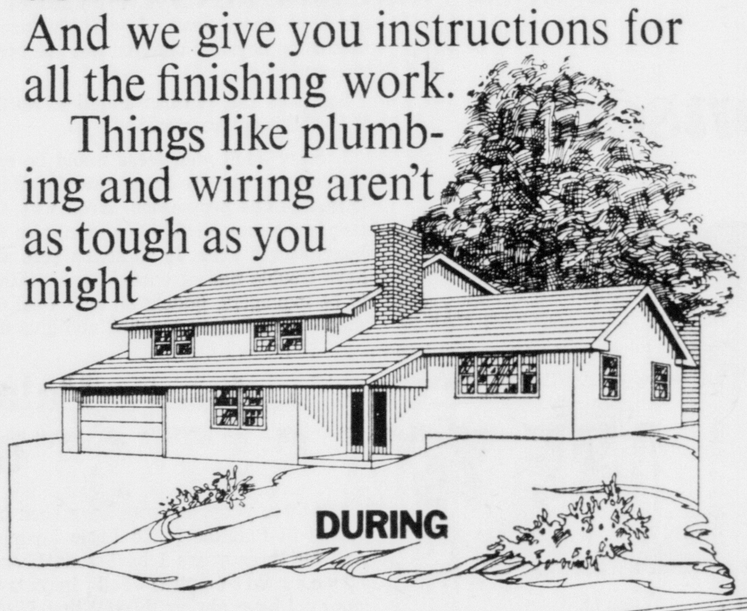
FLOOR PLANS YOU CAN MODIFY KITCHENS AND BATHS, THE WAY YOU WANT THEM



FINISHING YOUR HOME

You can get everything you need to finish your home—right down to the last nail—from us. And we give you instructions for all the finishing work.

Things like plumbing and wiring aren't as tough as you might think, even for people who've never done more than hang a picture.



You can do the work yourselves, get your friends to help out, or even sub-contract some of it.

The more work you do, the more you'll save. But even if you hire people to help, you'll be saving a sizeable amount by eliminating the general contractor's profits.

And when you're finished, you'll not only have a home that's worth a lot more than you paid for it, you'll have a real feeling of accomplishment.

WE'LL PROVIDE FINANCING

Because we believe in our homes and in the people who buy them, we provide the financing.

Your down payment won't put a big dent in your savings. (The cost of your building lot can be the only major cash outlay you'll have to make.) You can finance the rest of the cost through us at competitive interest rates. And if at any time you find a better financing arrangement, you can switch over with no pre-payment penalty.

104-PAGE CATALOG

If our finish-it-yourself plan makes sense to you, send the coupon to Capp Homes, and we'll mail you our full-color "Idea Book" of 78 plans.

Why let the high cost of housing force you to settle for less?

Herald opinion

Thanks for the nonsense

Al Carter, John Kamprad, Shorty Rattlesnake, A. H. Dawes, and a host of others, we love you.

We don't know where you come from but each year, usually when the summer heat has slowed the pace of the news — and life — down to its ebb, there emerges a new generation of American zanies, men and women who put the summer doldrums in their proper perspective.

Take Al Carter, for example. Al is a Chicago jazz drummer who celebrated the 100th anniversary of the opening of the historic Eads bridge in St. Louis by driving over the span 100 times — one for each year of the bridge's service. It cost Al Carter $25 but he didn't stop there. On each trip across the Mississippi he played "Old Man River" on a tape recorder and then set off 100 firecrackers in the middle of the structure to mark the centennial. In the same category with Al but at a lesser level we would put 100-year-old John Kamprad who rode a shuttle bus across the river 100 times on the 4th of July.

And then there is Shorty Rattlesnake, nee John Lewis Morgan, of Elk Grove Village who changed his name to the snappier version because he wants to be a champion rodeo rider and wouldn't Shorty Rattlesnake sound better than

Give the world . . .

John Morgan? Shorty, you're beautiful.

In the same class as the previously mentioned gents we would place two anonymous pranksters who added zest for two communities.

First, of course, is the smart-aleck who placed a "for sale" sign in front of the Wheeling Village Hall, former headquarters of a few admitted felons. The placement of the sign has a little bite to it, maybe too much sarcasm over humor, but among July's pranks it has to be regarded high among the top 10.

A tip of the hat also goes to whoever altered the Schaumburg village sign to read 132,400 instead of the correct 32,400. The lettering was done very neatly and was hardly noticed.

In a class all by himself is the poet laureate of the rooftops, A. H. Dawes, who was discovered shingling a rooftop by a Herald staff writer. Dawes is the creator of a place called Auserland, a shining, beautiful spot that comes alive in poems. It's not only a zany idea, but a nice one.

The thing that strikes you when each of these episodes come to light is, why do these people do it?

What gets into an Al Carter to make him ride the Eads Bridge 100 times and play "Old Man River" each time?

What makes a person sneak out at night to make Schaumburg's claims of future growth become a reality on a highway sign?

Attention is one reason, and in the case of the anonymous pranksters, the secret urge of all of us to give the world a jab with a hatpin. But still, that can't be all it takes or a lot more of us would be riding the Eads Bridge, or calling ourselves Shorty Rattlesnake.

Nope, it must be that some people just get caught with the summer zanies and doing odd things begins to make sense.

By the way, we hope you especially enjoy tomorrow's edition of the paper. We're changing our name to the Laramie, Wyoming, Arrow.

. . . a jab with a hatpin.

Little League:

–the debate continues; player hails the good side;

I am writing regarding a letter written by Mr. Jack Sharkey of Elk Grove Village concerning boys' baseball.

I am a 16-year-old and I participate in Mount Prospect Colt League (15-16-year-olds).

I do play baseball with my friends and we do enjoy playing together and we do play to win. We don't spend 20 minutes choosing sides because there is organization. This is something all grownups and youngsters should have.

You talk about getting our names in the paper. Maybe it is you who makes it such a big deal. Sure it's nice to see your name in the paper, it gives you a sense of pride. I don't think it's wrong to have pride in yourself and it is nice to know someone realizes the way you put out. But I don't think guys quit because their name isn't in the paper. That is going a bit overboard.

Another thing that might shock you, Mr. Sharkey. Ability has nothing to do with permission to play. Anybody who WANTS to play CAN play. No one is refused. An "A" league and a "B" league exist for all age groups. A guy with lesser ability goes into the "B" league. This is fair to everyone. Everyone gets to play with people on his own level. Also, in all leagues in Mount Prospect, a rule says everyone must play two defensive innings and bat at least once. So everyone does get to play.

Also, "trying out" is not un-American. Once you hit high school, the rest of your life is filled with "try-outs." I tried out for baseball and was cut. Sure it was tough, but I never lost my competitiveness and it was nice to know there was a league I could still play in.

Baseball is a part of my life and I'm sure all guys dream of being big league ballplayers. But it's not wrong to dream, especially at an age when we are not sure what we want to do. When it rains, I don't sit around and mope. I date, mess around with the guys, work on cars, go downtown. Yes, I play baseball, too. I enjoy them all.

Finally, you said nobody tried to get parents involved. Well, as a teenager, I can say I was and still am proud to have my parents at the games and know they care about my life even if it is "kid stuff." I always felt sorry for the guy who played and his parents didn't care to come and take an interest in their son's activities.

I fear that you and many men and women your age didn't want your parents involved and yet you and your peers are the first to complain about the "generation gap."

If you are looking for the beginning, look back into your childhood. There is where the problem begins. Those grownups who take time out are trying to end the problem today.

Mr. Sharkey, you have apparently blown 43 years thinking your memories are the only good ones. Well, when I'm 40 and I look back at my childhood, I know I can say, "Gee, I had some real great times." Then I can thank God for baseball leagues like Mount Prospect.

Now, I thank God for grownups who take time out to stop and help the younger generation.

Fence post
letters to the editor

Rebuttal to letter "Little League Gripes" appearing in the Fence Post, July 3, 1974:

For two years, my son has also been involved in Palatine North Little League. Last year, I was not pleased with some of the umpiring and tried to find out what could be done to improve it. This year, I became one of those "ineffectual" men walking around the various fields. After talking to several Little League leaders, who have worked with the boys many years, I was convinced that using boys for umpires was the best alternative.

Some of the reasons Palatine North started this program are:

1. Sixty adult volunteers would be required to umpire the 222 games played in four divisions per season. Even with 60 men, each man would have to umpire at least twice a week. In an area where we have trouble finding enough men willing to be managers, finding an additional 60 men willing to take training and give up 2-3 days a week seems an almost impossible task.

2. If the League tried to get paid umpires, this would increse the budget over $4,500. There would still be no guarantee the umpiring would be any better but more parents, coaches, and managers might be thrown out of the game.

3. Using untrained adults, as the league did in the past, was a disaster.

The only real problem with using boy umpires is the lack of self control of some of the "adults." Some of the adults even try to pick on the boys hoping for a better call for their side.

Once this season, when I requested a man refrain from calling out to the boy umpire, he said "I was only trying to get a few strikes for our side." If the adults can learn to keep their mouths shut except when cheering for their team, the boy umpires will do a good job. Most of the boys umpiring in the minors and majors range in age from 13-15 and have played Little League baseball since they were 8. They can do a great job if the adults let them.

One final word about "Palatine North having Vice Presidents for just about every phase of the game." Almost without exception, the vice presidents of each division coach or manage a team in a separate division. They volunteer for these dual functions which take up 4-5 days a week because if no one accepts the responsibility, the job of running the League will not get done. If you want to improve things, get involved.

M. J. Domgaard
Palatine

–Palatine managers chip in same rebuttal; they'd like to see critics be volunteers;

For three years our sons have been involved in Palatine North Little League. And for three years I have seen 12-and 13-year-old umpires call important games. I have always thought that Little League was for the boys. And I feel this should apply to umpires as well as ballplayers. As for the way I see Little League, it is set up for the boys to learn how to play baseball, learn the rules of the game, and to learn good sportsmanship. All of this put together will develop good character in the boys. I also feel a good way to start building character in a boy is to let him umpire. Yes, even an important game! We are trying to develop these boys for the future, when decision making will mean more than just a ball game. Don't you think Little League is a good place to start to help these boys? Too many people put too much emphasis on winning and not enough emphasis on what's good for the boys.

In the past three years I have been involved in over 50 Little League games. And I have yet to see one umpire who I have felt did not do his best while the game was being played. Sure they have made some errors on some calls, but so have the boys in the field, so have the managers and coaches, and yes, believe it or not, so have the parents of every Little League ballplayer in the United States.

I think one of the best things in television sports was when they started using the instant replay. Have you ever paid any attention as to how many bad calls are made by professional umpires? I would venture to say quite a few of all close plays are called wrong. But I would also say that they are not called wrong because the umpires know the players involved, or they lived down the block from them, or maybe went to school with them. They are called that way because that is the way the umpire saw the play, and in his judgment, he called it the way he thought was right. Can we ask more of our 12-and 13-year-old boys than we get from our major league umpires?

As for the men in charge of the umpires, I think they are doing a fantastic job trying to teach these boys. They are at every game checking to see how the boys are doing. Countless times I have seen these men take the umpires on the side in between innings to try to help these boys with their challenge. Yes, I'm afraid I have to call it a challenge. Because a lot of the adults that attend the games make it that way. I feel they are the ones that cause undue pressure on the boys. I wonder how many boys have quit umpiring just because of the abuse they receive from some of the spectators. I am also quite sure if you listen very close, you will find if there is any bad language it is probably coming from over there on the other side of the fence and not from the ball field. I can honestly say, I have never heard any players or umpires use any bad language. I would also say that the vast majority of spectators do not use it either. But there are always a couple, and unfortunately those are the ones you probably hear.

All the work done with the players and the umpires is done voluntarily. And I am sure, if any more interested parents would like to volunteer their time, there is more than enough work to go around. This is the best way to improve things: get out there and help.

I enjoy all the time and effort I put in Little League; and I'm sure just about all of the managers, coaches, team mothers, head umpires, player representatives, women's auxiliary, secretaries, treasurers, presidents, and all of those vice-presidents (and anybody else I might have missed) do also.

Why can't we let Little League be what it started out to be? A game for the boys, to develop men.

–Arlington mother grateful for spirit on son's team

On the last day of Little League baseball signup, I took my 8 year old, who wasn't too sure he wanted to play baseball at all. He was lucky enough to choose a team with school friends on it. This team was the Bulls of the North Red Junior League.

As a family, we four knew nothing of baseball. I had never seen a game played on television or on a baseball field. But from the first cold practice throughout the season, I was there learning and watching a group of 8 and 9 year olds growing into a team under the coaching and guidance of two great men. These two men not only coached these 14 boys, but they took time to teach me a little about baseball.

Last week, the Bulls won the division championship game by a score of 3 to 2. The pressure of the game on both teams was great, but the harassment towards our manager and most of our batters by a few parents and many children standing at the foul line was completely uncalled for. We speak of sportsmanship and teaching this to our children, but how can children learn this when their own parents, other adults, and older children are doing the opposite?

There happened to be two small boys sitting behind our foul line supporting the Bulls. Twice they tried in a meek way to harass the other team's batters, and twice I got up and told them we don't do that here.

I'm sure both teams and their parents were excited about this game. But I am proud our players and fans practiced good sportsmanship and won their game fair. The boys on our team have been taught this by their manager, Bob Pierce, their coach, Jerry Donavan, and their assistants.

In conclusion, I would like to say not only have I learned what baseball and Little League is all about, I have a son who after receiving criticism for mistakes and praise, still has love and respect for someone who cares.

Remember streaking? It's still 'in' thing at International Village

by JUDY JOBBITT

Streaking is nothing new at International Village. It's just given the nudists there a fashionable name and brought them out into the open.

Although the streaking fad died down after college students had their thrills last spring, streakers at International Village are still in rare form. After all, some of them have spent years doing it during parties at the singles complex.

The streaking crowd at IV is an informal group, said Jess, the unofficial president. About nine IV residents would qualify to become members of the "streaking club" at this time, according to its unwritten rules, he said.

A "classified member" is someone who has streaked in public and can get another person to verify it, he said.

THE GROUP has no formal organization. Those who have streaked in the past and still will when the urge hits them, have discussed organizing into a type of club with "streaking T-shirts," he said.

Members started qualifying last March at a brunch one Sunday. At the party about 12 persons said they would streak at noon around the grounds of IV, he said.

"As the time grew near, they panicked," said Jess. "They chickened out one by one 'til there was only me and Joe left."

The two of them streaked around the pool area and back to the apartment under the stares of IV residents who had been tipped off about the streak in advance.

Jess said there have been several streaking incidents at the Sheraton Inn Walden when a group of them would streak after a party and collect a free bottle of champagne.

THE FIRST woman to streak at the village bared all at the Lobster Day held this spring. Advance billings about the day told about a girl streaker. The crowd waited but nothing developed. Finally, one young woman volunteered and streaked for about 50 residents.

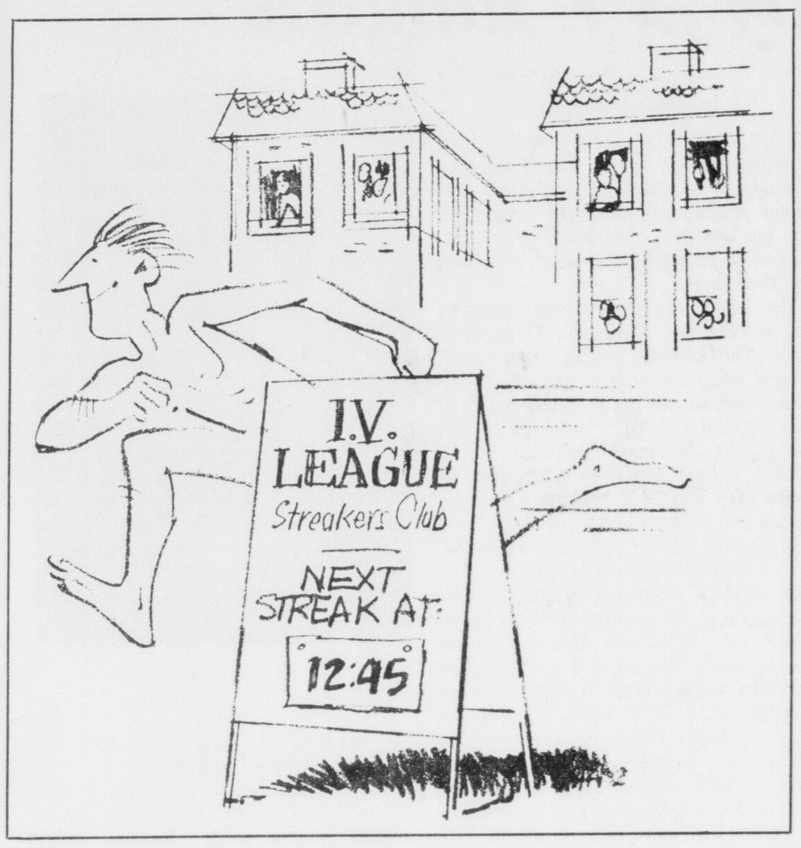
"It's nothing particularly thrilling to do," said Jess. "It's just something crazy to do."

He said the aura about streaking is the same as that which surrounds nudity.

"Nudity, once you're use to it, breaks down barriers between people," he said. "Often clothes are a barrier in themselves. Nudity makes you feel a little freer, more open."

THE STREAKERS range from 20 to 40 years old. "No one is classified by age here," said Jess. "We judge a person for what he is."

He said many refuse to streak because they are afraid for their reputation. But he said there have been no adverse reactions toward the women who have streaked.



"We never shocked anybody. There's always advance warning so those who would won't take offense to it," he said.

"People are liberal in that aspect. Nudity is not considered a moral issue."

15 families win in Classified Sweepstakes

Fifteen lucky families have claimed prizes in the first three drawings in the Arlington Park and Herald Classified Sweepstakes.

A drawing will be held in the Sweepstakes each Friday through Aug. 16. Entry blanks are published in The Herald Tuesdays.

Prizes and winners to date are:

- A day at the races in the Classic Club with lunch and drinks for two: Sal Pace, Elk Grove Village; Dennis Szafran, Rolling Meadows, and L. G. LeClaire, Arlington Heights.
- A day at the races for a family of four including clubhouse admission, lunch in the Futurity Room and reserved box seats: Mrs. John Skach and Frank Kreft, both of Palatine, and Mrs. Laurence Dowd, Arlington Heights.
- A round of golf for four at the Arlington Park Towers golf course: J. H. Grant, Dolores Solsrud and Mrs. Helen Griffith, all of Arlington Heights.
- A dinner for two in the Top of the Towers Supper Club in Arlington Park Towers, complete with floor show: Jean Johnson and Mrs. Ben Stothart, both of Arlington Heights, and Norbert Kosirog, Hoffman Estates.
- An overnight stay at Arlington Park Towers for two, including dinner and breakfast, and complete use of the facilities: Roger Fick, Palatine; R. Myszkowski, Mount Prospect, and Theresa Shannon, Arlington Heights.

Winners' names are published in the classified advertising pages each Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday following a drawing.

Chicago's Studs Terkel sought by TV moguls

by DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — Studs Terkel's thing is making books out of interviews with average people. His "Hard Times" had people reminiscing about the Depression and his new one, "Working," is a compilation of people talking about their jobs and their lives.

The books are tremendously popular and successful, so naturally TV is interested. The network moguls always sniff around when something succeeds in another field, wondering if there's any way that success can be transferred to TV. And they're after good old Studs.

Their interest has been heightened because they know his background. Studs Terkel is a veteran of broadcasting. He's a Chicagoan and he was there when Chicago had its own style of television.

IN THOSE semi-good days, the Chicago style of TV created three programs which were milestones. One was Garroway-at-large, with Dave Garroway's low pressure variety hour. Another was delightful Kukla, Fran and Ollie. And the third was Studs' Place.

Studs' Place was an imaginary restaurant. It became so popular that people used to come to Chicago and ask the taxi drivers to take them to Studs' Place.

Chicago's place in the TV sun didn't last too long.

"As soon as the networks came in," Studs says, "and realized what a tremendous advertising medium TV was, as soon as the vice presidents took over, I knew my show was doomed. It wasn't the kind of show that sold things — it was only the kind of show the public liked."

But Studs' name became part of TV's history. He still has a very popular radio show in Chicago and that's another thing the TV brass today are interested in.

He says they've been after him to do his interview thing on TV

"ONE OF THE late-night shows wanted to give me three minutes," he says.

STUDS TERKEL

"I just laughed. They said maybe five minutes. I laughed some more.

"It can't be done in that short a time. It takes me a couple of hours to get people talking easily. Besides, they'd freeze up in front of a camera. I have to gain their confidence before they'll give me anything worthwhile.

"In my interviews, generally the first half-hour or three-quarters of an hour are just verbal fencing, until the subject feels comfortable. If I tried to do an interview in five minutes on TV, it wouldn't be worth a thing."

So he's turned down TV's feelers. Some other feelers, however, intrigue him. He says that playwright Arthur Miller has been trying to make a play out of sections of "Hard Times," and that would be fine. So far, however, he says that Miller has found it too big a project.

"It's defeated him," Studs says.

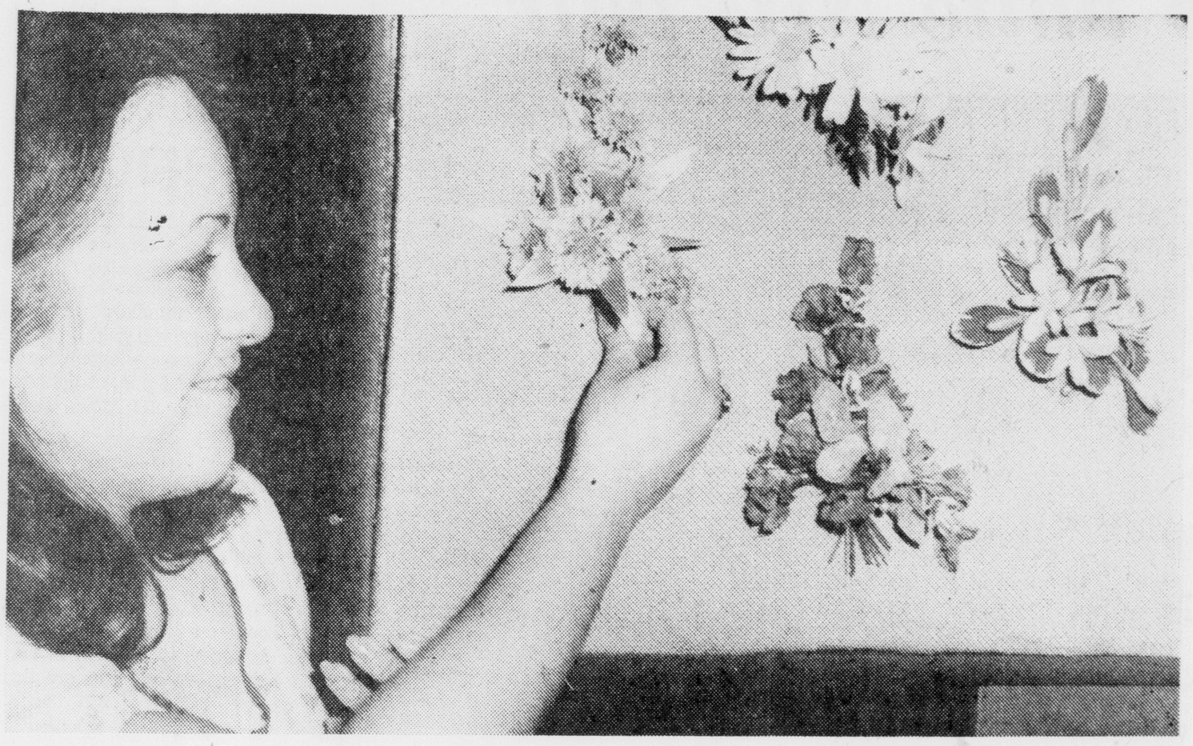
INSURED



PAT ABERLE OF Elk Grove Village, pins corsages of fresh flowers that she and fellow students produced during a "work break" between classroom sessions at the American Floral Art School, Chicago.

A WEDDING BOUQUET, fashioned of fresh frangipani blossoms from Hawaii, is art school creation that holds the attention of Marilyn Miller, 19, Des Plaines, an employe of Ray's Flowers and Gifts in Des Plaines.

A designing woman

In the field of flowers

BY MARY B. GOOD

Commuters on the Northwestern did double-takes when a student from the American Floral Art School in Chicago wore her creations home on the train — fresh bird of Paradise in her hair, exotic orchids on her shoulder and a garland of roses around her neck. It could have been more shocking — but the teacher wouldn't let her take her funeral designs home!

For three weeks this summer, three Northwest suburban girls, Marilyn Miller and Mary Carney, both of Des Plaines, and Pat Aberle of Elk Grove Village, got growing with a professional floral design course, along with 37 other students from eight states.

Classmates ranged from several men and women who recently bought flower shops and came for training, a number of florists who want to get promotions, a horticulture teacher, to a pre-med student who works part-time for Amling's, plans to become a plastic surgeon and took the course to improve his manual dexterity. He figured his training will finance his medical education.

FORMER STUDENTS have come to the school at 539 S. Wabash from every state in the union and 29 countries.

Three hundred students have come from Japan alone. Their ages have ranged from 11 to 81.

Recently when a large Chicago florist sent a distress call to the school for extra hands to help prepare 10,000 roses for New Trier High School's commencement exercises, several American Floral Art School students turned out for their first taste of paid flower shop experience.

Another new experience for some was preparing flowers (strictly extra-curricular) for a Greek cotillion in the Grand Ballroom of the glamorous Conad Hilton hotel. Later, others readied blossoms for a gala North Shore wedding, which inclued 2,000 Klehm peonies dripping from hanging baskets and beflowered floating swans decorating an outdoor swimming pool in the garden of the bride's parents.

MARILYN MILLER, a student from Des Plaines who works at Ray's Flowers and Gifts in that suburb, learned there is big opportunity for good designers to moonlight as windowtrimmers and special assignment designers. There are possibilities for fanning out into broader areas too: Combine photography with flower designing and sew up two needed wedding services. Or do as one Rolling Meadows lady does: Service weddings on a free lance basis. Spare greenhouse space or vacant land can be put to lucrative use by growing in-demond money crops for florists such as bittersweet, stephanotis and statice.

Courses such as this one are appealing, especially since it is estimated that the floral industry is a $2 to $6 billion a year business.

CLASSES AT FLORAL design schools — and there are several across the country — are usually booked up well in advance. This is especially true at the Chicago school, where all students use fresh flowers exclusively. Bill Kistler, director of the school, who worked on the Johnson and Nixon daughters' weddings, said, "A beginning designer can't develop a delicate touch with flowers by practicing on plastic plants."

Mary Carney is another Des Plaines girl attending the American Floral Art School. Mary worked at Ray's Flowers with Marilyn Miller, but Mary worked as the shop's delivery girl. She changed to a job as file clerk but didn't see a future for an office girl who couldn't type. Mary took the course because she realizes the need for education to advancement. She hopes to land a job in the florist business after graduation.

A BROCHURE advertising a career in floral designing attracted Pat Aberle of Elk Grove Village. She decided there and then that she wanted such a career. She's just graduated from high school.

The girls found out that it's amazing what they could do with flowers: Make "violets" out of stocks, "camellias" out of roses, "callas" out of gladioli, "flowers" out of foliages. They picked up tips on how to make straight flowers curved and curved flowers straight, how to make eight mini-flowers out of one carnation and make it look eight times as pretty!

Besides learning to create every kind of design under the sun, students received a smattering of merchandising, buying, pricing, art, salesmanship, lighting techniques.

EVERY DAY fresh flowers, only hours away from fields in Mexico, Guatemala, Australia, Hawaii, California, Holland and South America, were delivered to the school, where students had a chance to work with out-of-the ordinary godetias, proteas, torch ginger, frangipani, stephanotis, anthurium, euchairs, roses, camelias, gardenias, Peruvian lilies, orchids and more.

Some of the students rose early one morning and joined two of their instructors for a visit to the colorful Chicago wholesale flower market on Randolph Street. Students were encouraged to visit the local display companies and prop shops, Chicago Art Institute and other spots that cultivate interest in art and design. Director Kistler related that he had accompanied a group of students to the Blackstone Theatre one time, where they went backstage and viewed theatrical props and met the star.

AN UNEXPECTED visitor to the school recently, in Chicago to compete for the "Florist of the Year" award, was a California businessman, who counts Bob Hope among his celebrity customers. He recalled that when he launched his business, he retrieved tin cans from the garbage because he couldn't afford stock vases.

An early graduate of the school, Harry Finley, was the subject of a recent Coronet magazine feature and also a TV program telecast. His specialty is gala Hollywood bashes. Another former student has been making the flowers for the Kentucky Derby winners for years.

From horse blankets to grave blankets, society wedding decorations, to body flowers, floral school for all students means dipping and tipping, drying, dying, painting, pickling and preserving flowers. And for some it means the beginning of a well-paying, creative job — working with flowers.

What price patriotism?

It hasn't always been that our back yard was one of the hot spots of the nation. There were days when it was a quiet place — a cool shady spot where one could listen to the breeze rustling through the trees. Then we got a new barbecue.

In March, just as things began to thaw seriously, we decided our old barbecue had had it. It had served us well (as well as rare) over the years. But the bottom had begun to rust through, and in the interest of keeping America beautiful, we threw it out.

We went for several months without an outdoor grill. If I had really thought about it, I suppose I would have had to say I missed it. However, I lived comfortably enough without it until it got close to Memorial Day.

AS MAY 30 — or the Monday before — drew near, and the ads for hot dogs got bigger and more frequent, my husband grew restless for a barbecue. Finally, because he was beginning to make me feel positively unAmerican that we didn't have one, I went out and bought a grill similar to the one we had lately committed to the junkyard.

We used it on Memorial Day, of course, and many times after that. One day I noticed that the rack on the grill — made in a many-spoked wheel design, had begun to slope a little at the outer rim. It didn't seem to interfere with the cooking. After the first hot dog rolled off, I just made sure the food was secure when I put it over the hot coals.

Last Wednesday I decided to cook the short ribs. I had marinated them for days to make them tender enough to cook on the barbecue. So I put them on the grill, covered them with aluminum foil to make maximum use of the heat, and prepared the rest of the meal.

JUST AS I GOT to the back door to check the ribs' progress, I saw the flames.

"Our dinner's burning!" I shouted to my husband who didn't react because that happens all the time.

"I mean it's really on fire!" I yelled as I ran out the door.

He followed fast and tried to pull off the aluminum foil which was flaming from the grease on it. Flames danced merrily from the ribs.

Suddenly I noticed that the barbecue rack had drooped even more, looking now like a partially closed umbrella and holding the ribs fatally close to the coals. It was then that I began to laugh. I was amused, too, by an embarrassed neighbor who was politely trying not to notice our fire as he mowed the lawn.

My husband joined me in sitting on the grass. As we dreamily watched our dinner burn up, he stated he was glad that he had bought the grill in a patriotic gesture for Memorial Day.

I asked him why.

"Because it is a fitting tribute to Americana that the barbecue should fall apart in time for us to buy another one for the Fourth of July."

Why men's fashions are changing

Fashion

by Karen

Fifteen years ago, a businessman who came to work wearing a pink striped shirt would probably have been laughed out of the office. If not laughed at, there would have at least been some strange glances or whispering and pointing going on.

Recently, advanced men's fashions have been building up male courage. They are wearing clothes and accessories they wouldn't have touched with a ten-foot pole in the past.

Why the acceptance of colored and patterned shirts? What about the most current innovations in men's wear — wrist bands, shoulder bags, higher heeled shoes and colored underwear?

Opinions vary, according to research by Hart Schaffner & Marx, a Chicago men's clothing manufacturing form.

DR. CHARLES L. GRUDER, associate professor of psychology at Chicago Circle Campus of the University of Illinois, had this to say: "What's available is what they'll wear. Years ago, there were no colored or patterned shirts so there were no decisions to be made."

Opinion leaders, Gruder said, start the styles and people tend to follow. He feels that in fashion, as in other fields, people conform and that they are definitely influenced by others.

Joan Eggan, a psychotherapist from Chicago, has another idea. She says that in many of the most meaningful aspects of our lives, we are questioning old values and seeking new ones. "The young started it but now everyone is embracing new things," she said. "The established ways are being rejected and no longer are men or women staying within bounds formerly decreed for them."

THIS INCLUDES fashion. Each person today wears what appeals most to him or her as an individual.

Another psychologist looks back to the Beatle "revolution" of the '60s. Since then, he says, men are less afraid of their interest in the home, or their sexuality. He called it a "wider definition of maleness."

Social psychologist Richard Evans, a professor at the University of Houston and a frequent talk show participant says that the barriers are down and men are expressing themselves more creatively.

"Social identity is what men are seeking and expressing," said Evans. "Fashion has become a tool as men look for identity and establish individuality."

ACCORDING TO Evans, women have always had the ability to express themselves through fashion. Now men have learned the trick. "It's a healthy change," he said.

Yes, you've come a long way, buddy. Shirts unbuttoned to the navel, wigs, colored knee hose and countless other fashions that grandpa would have thought sissified.

It's not happening overnight, however. I'm sure that my dad wouldn't wear a "bracelet." And I've inquired around the office and at other social occasions and there are still many men who prefer plain white boxer shorts to paisley briefs, loafers instead of platforms and the four-in-hand instead of a bow tie.

JEWELRY FOR MEN is slowly but surely becoming an accepted trend.

Pattern feature starts today

Do you like wearing dresses that look as if they carry $100 price tags yet only cost $15? Then you're part of that rapidly expanding home sewing market which annually spends $3.5 billion.

You'll also enjoy a new feature starting today in The Herald classified pages. Easy-to-follow printed patterns will be available each day for only 75 cents or $1.

Fashions by Anne Adams, Marian Martin and prominent designers will alternate with needlecraft items from Alice Brooks and Laura Wheeler. The latter patterns will feature items to knit, crochet, weave, quilt, or macrame in addition to needlepoint.

These professionally tested patterns enable any home seamstress to create fashionable wearing apparel or unique decorative items for the home.

Also available will be booklets packed with tips and patterns for home designers.

These money-saving plans start today — in the classified pages. Take a look!

Businesswomen's chapter names Woman of the Year

Rita Davis of Hoffman Estates has been named 1974 Woman of the Year by Illinois Oak Brook Chapter of the American Business Women's Association.

She will represent the chapter at the national convention to be held in Denver, Colo., in October.

Mrs. Davis is a bookkeeper for the Treasury Supermarket in Rolling Meadows. She is also currently vice president of the Food Service Executives Association and serves as its membership chairman.

The purpose of the American Business Women's Association is to elevate the social and business standards of women in business by uniting them nationally.

HELPING TO launch the Oak Brook Chapter in 1969, Rita served as its banquet chairman, subsequently rising from treasurer to vice president and then president.

She is now the group's educational projects chairman. In that capacity she arranges many fund-raising projects to provide scholarships for women who want to further their education.

Rita's husband Richard is a sales engineer with Foxboro Co., Mount Prospect. The couple has four sons, Michael, David, Donald and Terrence.

Picnic at Trinity for women, kids

Mothers, grandmothers and children of Trinity United Methodist Church, Mount Prospect, will picnic together Wednesday on the church grounds at 605 W. Golf Rd.

The fun starts at 11 a.m. and ends at 2 p.m.

Highlight of the event, sponsored by the church's United Methodist Women, will be a magic act by the minister, Dr. Robert Matthews.

All shades of the rainbow surround Arlington bride

All the shades of the rainbow surrounded Barbara Ann Krysh of Arlington Heights as she became a bride on June 16. Her matron of honor and six bridesmaids wore identically styled gowns in various pastel colors as they came down the aisle of St. James Catholic Church for the four o'clock ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Sparks

Barbara was married to Gary Everett Sparks, petty officer third class in the U. S. Navy and the son of Dr. and Mrs. Tom C. Sparks of Ardmore, Okla.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Krysh, 422 Sigwalt, Arlington Heights. After graduating from Arlington High School, Barbara enrolled at National College of Education, Evanston, and in fall will begin her final year of studies.

IT WAS DURING her freshman year at National that she met Gary when he was stationed at Great Lakes Naval Station. The couple agree it was love at first sight.

Their double ring nuptials were followed by a dinner at White Eagle Restaurant in Niles for 160 guests. The couple then had a week's honeymoon in the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania before the groom took his bride to Norfolk, Va., to live. He is stationed at the base there while serving aboard the USS Belknap.

Barbara's matron of honor was Mrs. Cathey Weidemann of Arlington Heights. Debbie Norman, Syracuse, N. Y.; Pam Krysh, Barbara's sister-in-law, Arlington Heights; Nancy Williams, Arlington; Kathy Krysh, her sister; and Susan Sparks, the groom's sister, were bridesmaids. The junior bridesmaid was Susan Krysh, Palatine, a cousin of the bride.

LARRY SPARKS WAS his brother's best man and Gary's other brother, Tom, was among the groomsmen. The others were the bride's brothers, Michael and David Krysh; Alan Burris, Arlington, Tex.; and Grover C. McMakin, Monroe, La., cousin of the groom.

Junior groomsmen was Jamie Krysh, Barbara's young brother.

The bride was attired in a candlelight satinessa gown which she made herself and trimmed with french lace. She wore the same heart-shaped necklace her mother wore on her wedding day. Barbara's fingertip veil was held by a lace cap, and her bouquet was of phalaenopsis, yellow Garnet roses and stephanotis.

Her attendants' jersey knit gowns were halter-type with matching bolero jacket that had a hood attached. Their flowers were spring bouquets to match their gowns.

June rites unite NIU pair

Although both are originally from Arlington Heights, Carolyn Waffle and Robert Rose first met while attending Northern Illinois University.

The couple exchanged vows in a double ring ceremony June 16 in St. James Catholic Church, Arlington Heights.

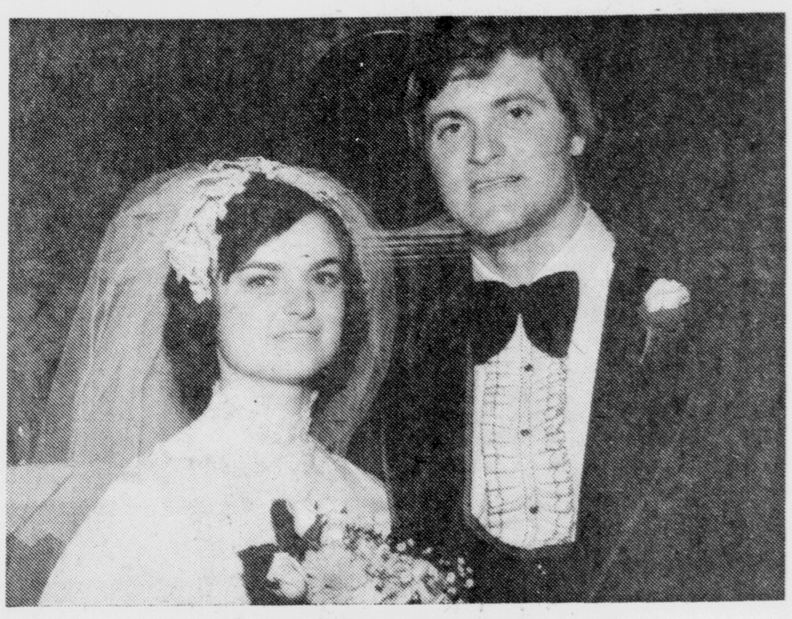
Carolyn is the daughter of the Gareth Waffles, now of Franklin, Wis. The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Rose, now live at 4 Brookton on Auburn, Rolling Meadows.

THE BRIDE chose an ivory organza gown appliques with lace in a floral motif and an elbow-length veil attached to a crown of lace petals. Completing her ensemble was a bouquet of pink roses, daisies and baby's breath.

Kathy Malone, the bride's sister from Pensacola, Fla., was matron of honor and her other sisters, Nance and Susan Waffle of Franklin, Wis., were bridesmaids. The girls all wore pink floral printed gowns and carried baskets filled with pink roses and daisies.

Tom Rose of Michigan City, Ind., was his brother's best man, with two other brothers, Greg of Rolling Meadows and Albert of Wheaton, as groomsmen.

A BUFFET dinner for 200 guests followed at the Plum Grove Club after which the couple left for a 10-day honeymoon in Arizona.



Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rose

A '69 graduate of Arlington High School, Carolyn earned a degree from Northern Illinois last year and has been teaching in Park Ridge School Dist. 64.

Her husband graduated from St. Viator High School in 1968 and received his bachelor's degree from Northern Illinois in 1973. He is currently doing graduate work in psychology at Western Illinois University, Macomb, where the two are residing for the summer.

Next on the agenda

LA LECHE LEAGUE

Hanover Park-Schaumburg group in the La Leche League will hold its fourth meeting of a four-part series on breastfeeding Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. James Tully, 216 Alpine Drive, Schaumburg.

The topic will be "Nutrition and Weaning." Mrs. Richard Malter will lead the discussion and is available for counseling and further information at 894-8939. Rides are available from Mrs. Paul Mureiko, 837-0326.

Printed material and a free loan library of books on related subjects are available. All women interested in nursing their babies are invited as are their babies.

Azaleas may be suffering root damage

The homeline by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: We've had lovely azaleas for some time, and although nothing seems to be wrong with them, they gradually are dying on us. Any idea on what could be wrong? — Thayer Corbin

It sounds like root damage. Azaleas are shallow-rooted and thus need particular care. When the plants are set too deep and the wrong mulch used, the roots tend to become smothered. Peat moss is not recommended because it retains so much moisture the azaleas' fibrous surface roots are attracted upward where they are exposed to heat damage. The bestmulch is a half-inch layer of wood chips or pine bark. What is also good is powdered azalea fertilizer, watered in.

Dear Dorothy: Visited my grandchild recently and was intrigued watching her make an angel food cake from a mix. She followed the instructions to the letter, but then added almost a teaspoon of vanilla. It was an excellent cake — so much so that I've decided to do it her way next time around. Sign of the times: I was even more amused to see her turn the pan upside down over a cola bottle for the cake to cool! — Mrs. Thomas Corbett

Dear Dorothy: I've seen hints from readers on how to clean the gook off shower doors, but I find my way simple and effective. I make a solution of water and dishwashing detergent, spray it on, then rinse. Takes good care of the tile, too. — Wanda O'Neill

Dear Dorothy: Don't think I've ever seen this in the column. When I plan to peel onions, I take off the outer skin, then put it in a plastic bag in the freezer for about 20 minutes. There are never any tears with this method. — Linda Atkins

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Any kid can learn to play

The do's and don'ts of making music

Parents who wear ear plugs when the kids take up drum, piano, violin or anything musical are not helping one bit.

They are not getting into the spirit of helping the child discover the joys of making music. His or her own kind.

The American Music Conference in Kalamazoo, Mich., says with encouragement from parents, any child can learn to play well.

How much fun a child derives from his music studies is determined by a parent's attitudes and support when the child begins studying. Reaching for ear plugs is wrong.

As a guide to parents, Dr. William Fowler, professor of music at the University of Utah and a member of AMC's educational advisory board, offers the following do's and don'ts.

• Don't ... dictate the choice of instrument. "Banjo players can't become great artists. Whoever heard of a famous tuba player?" are statements that don't wash with the young and eager.

• Do ... allow your son or daughter to select the instrument to be learned. Remember, your child is the one who will be studying the instrument. It must be one that he wants to learn and the one he will want to spend time practicing on.

• Don't ... use practice as punishment. "You've been a bad boy - girl, so march right down and practice for an hour."

• Do ... encourage the child to practice a reasonable length of time each day. Perhaps your child can accomplish more with two 15 minute sessions daily than one half-hour or one hour at a time.

• Don't ... compare him unfavorably especially with a sibling. "Susie could play that piece perfectly when she was only six years old. And you can't even get through it going on 10."

• Do ... try to find ways to compliment the child on his growing abilities to play well. Encouragement will make the child more eager to perfect his abilities and please you.

• Don't ... pooh-pooh his creative efforts. "What is all that doodling around? Stick to the music your teacher gave you."

• Do ... allow your child to enjoy making his own music by improvising. While his lessons may be necessary to learn the basics, he'll accomplish greater musical growth by injecting his own feelings in the music he plays.

• Don't ... furnish him with a bad instrument. "This horn is good enough to learn on. After you've shown your father and me that you deserve a better one we'll consider it."

• Do ... buy or rent a good instrument, even if it is an inexpensive one. Good instruments help the beginner develop an ear for music and recognize "sour notes."

• Don't ... discredit the kind of music he likes. "You know your father doesn't approve of the Nashville sound. Go play the Segovia scales."

• Do ... allow him free choice in the music he wants to play. Many educators believe that children benefit from all types of music that is well written. Youngsters normally advance from contemporary to classical selections on their own when they develop abilities and seek greater challenge in the music they play.

• Don't ... insist he "keep your eyes on the music all the time. Otherwise you'll never learn to read."

• Do ... let him learn the music the way that is most comfortable for him, whether by sight-reading or by rote.

• Don't ... force him to practice every day for long periods. "Beethoven practiced six hours a day. All we're asking you to do is four."

• Do ... discuss with your child how he would like to practice. He may want to spend several hours each day with his instrument, or perhaps break practice sessions into several shorter periods each day.

• Don't ... equate your esteem with his accomplishments. "Just think how much Daddy and I will love you when you play the 'Minute Waltz' in 59 seconds."

• Do ... reinforce his accomplishments by showing approval of what he does. A youngster's interest in and love for music should be an end in itself.

• Don't ... put him on display. "Now be a good boy and play your pieces for all these nice people."

• Do ... allow the child to play, if he wants to, when you have company. However, this should not be done with a child who obviously prefers to play for himself rather than others. The child should not be an entertainer for Mommy and Daddy's guests.

• Don't ... point out your monetary sacrifice. "We're paying $5 for every lesson. Now earn them!"

Their romance started at a wedding

It was just last August when Patricia E. Strother of Arlington Heights met Gerhard Funke of Hoffman Estates. Both were attendants at the wedding of Pamela and Louis Splittorff, and those nuptials sparked a romance for the two.

It culminated in their own marriage June 22 in St. James Catholic Church, Arlington Heights. Naturally, the Splittorffs were invited to be in the wedding, and they came all the way from Huntington Beach, Calif., for the festivities.

Patricia is the daughter of the Charles W. Strothers, 1007 N. Vail, and Gerhard the son of the Walter G. Funkes, 285 Ashley Rd.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Funke

MARY DAVIS OF Oklahoma City, an Alpha Phi sorority sister of the bride, was her maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Pamela Splittorff, Sharon Martin of Arlington Heights and Betsy Sawyer of Lake Forest.

The girls all wore blue and white embroidered gingham dresses trimmed with white eyelet beading. They complemented them with white straw picture hats tied with blue satin ribbon and carried mixed bouquets in white, yellow, purple and blue.

There was also a junior bridesmaid, 11-year-old Hope Stewart of Western Springs, a cousin of the bride. She wore a dress similar to the others, but with a skirt of white embroidered organdy.

The bride entered the sanctuary in a white silk organza gown with Empire bodice embroidered in peau d'ange lace and pearl beading. Her Camelot headpiece matched her gown and from the cap flowed a full-length veil. The bride's bouquet was of white Sweetheart roses, Exquisite carnations, baby's breath and forget-me-nots. As "something old" she wore her maternal grandmother's diamond ring.

Coming down the aisle as ring bearer was David Bartholic, 4, of Itasca.

JEFFREY SAWYER OF Winnetka served as best man, with Louis Splittorff, Gordon Hollander of Barrington and Thomas Sawyer of Winnetka as groomsmen.

A dinner for 140 guests followed at the Arlington Park Towers after which the couple left for a week's honeymoon in Jamaica.

They are living in Palatine and working in nearby suburbs. Patricia is with Alpha Technical Services, Mount Prospect, and Gerhard a teacher at Glenbrook North High School, Northbrook.

After graduating from Arlington High School the bride attended the University of Oklahoma. The groom is a graduate of Conant High and Indiana University, where he was affiliated with Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity.

Good scents

Try to avoid heavy-scented oils and perfumes in hot, humid summer months. They don't help you to keep cool and can create a stifling feeling for others when you're in close quarters.

No rubber bands

Don't use a plain uncoated rubber band to tie up your hair. The rubber will catch, causing the hair to break and tear. Use only coated elastic bands, plastic or metal clips. These give minimal hair damage.

Married in Minnesota

Mark Aggerbeck of Palatine took Jean Bieber of Redwood Falls, Minn., as his bride on June 22. The wedding took place in Gloria Dei Lutheran Church in the bride's home town.

The couple met at St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn., where Jean took her first two years of studies. She then transferred to Carthage College, earning a degree there this spring. Mark graduated from St. Olaf and then went on to graduate school at Northwestern University, where he just received a master's in business.

Mark, who attended Fremd High School, is the son of the L. J. Aggerbecks of Palatine.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Aggerbeck

THE COUPLE'S brothers, Lon and Don Aggerbeck and David Bieber, were groomsmen for the candlelight ceremony. Bridal attendants included Martha Steinkraus, Redwood Falls; Nancy Blane, Rolling Meadows; and Jean Weber Orellana, Madison, Wis.

The wedding guests were seated by Mike Bieber, the bride's brother, and three of the groom's college friends: Jim Byrd and Brian Harter of Minneapolis and Tony Aldwell of Cariboo, Me.

After a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Bieber, Jean's parents, the couple left for a trip along the north shore of Lake Superior and into Canada. They are now living in Rochester, Minn., where Mark works for IBM.

Fred Humkes reminisce on 60 years of marriage

The "good old days" for a 60th anniversary couple, Fred and Margaret Humke, of Mount Prospect, meant skimming over drifted roads and fences in winter in a horse-drawn red cutter and summer threshing with the help of closeknit neighbors and seven teams of horses.

They also bring back memories of band concerts at Eagle Point Park overlooking the Mississippi River.

But that was many years ago when the Humkes started married life as farmers in Dubuque, Iowa. Their courtship began when Margaret was teaching school and boarded at relatives who were also kin of Fred's.

Both Fred and his wife were born in Dubuque but did not meet until they were grown up.

NOW, 60 YEARS later, the couple are retired and living in Mount Prospect at 513 N. Maple, close to their daughter, Jean Proudfoot, and family.

Fred gave up farming in 1950 and a few years later he and his wife moved to this area.

Jean and another daughter, Ruth Alleen Holmes of Denton, Tex., planned an open house for the pair on Sunday, June 23, the day before the anniversary date. It was held at the Proudfoot home on N. Emerson Street.

Fred is now 86; Margaret will be 83 in August. They have five grandchildren and one great-grandchild. All of them were at the open house celebration.

Canning, freezing workshops open to homemakers

The Home Economics Department of the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service recently held a workshop on canning and freezing foods. Due to an overwhelming response, reservations for the workshop were closed just hours after the announcement appeared in the papers. Rather than disappoint those in the area who have shown such an interest in the subject, two more workshops have been scheduled, both on Monday, July 22.

One is planned in the afternoon from 1 to 3; another in the evening from 7 to 9. Both will be held in the Chestnut Room of Mount Prospect Community Center, 600 See-Gwun.

Seating is limited. Reservation should be phoned to the Des Plaines office, 298-5007, specifying the afternoon or evening session and how many seats to be reserved.

At the workshop, home economists Dorothy Landgraf and Shirley McCann will answer questions and distribute literature on home canning and freezing.

A Paddock review

'Luv' an enjoyable farce

By GENIE CAMPBELL

"Luv" is a farce. It also says something. Underneath the satire and slapstick, playwright Murray Schisgal offers a timely insight into the continual experience of "dissatisfaction." Always what we don't have looks more appealing than what we've got.

And the comedy currently being staged at Arlington Park Theatre is a gas, nothing to contemplate at a later date, but plenty to enjoy uproariously for the moment.

It would be highly unnatural not to laugh out loud over Dom DeLuise's inane capers, his sad, often poignant expressions and sometimes unavoidable cutups.

OPENING NIGHT not all was perfect. Small technical flaws, a dog that wouldn't bark, a knife that didn't appear (attributable, no doubt, to the fact the play went on without much prior practice), only added to the merriment as DeLuise turned every misfortune into an additional occasion for laughter.

"Luv" opens as DeLuise in the role of Harry Berlin, a worn out, defeated man, is just about ready to end it all by jumping of a bridge.

With one leg already over, he is saved by an old college chum, Milt Manville, whom Harry hasn't seen in 15 years.

It's the three-member cast as a whole, rounded out by Bill McCutcheon as Milt and Joyce Van Patten as his on-again off-again wife, Ellen, who make the play the effective andsmooth production it is. I've seen the comedy staged before when all encounters fell flat.

JOYCE PLAYS THE dejected wife whose super intelligence, she feels, is at fault for the ruination of her marriage. For that she blames the board of education. All she ever really wanted out of life was to be a good wife and mother.

Milt is able to make Harry forget about suicide by convincing him all his problems could be solved with "love." That's all he needs to pull himself together. Harry doesn't know what love means. He's never experienced it.

Milt describes how much it's meant to him, being in love with Linda, only it does present a problem since his wife, Ellen, won't give him a divorce. "But Ellen is a fine girl," he baits Harry. "She reads a lot and plays Flamingo guitar, just right for you, Harry."

THE REST OF the far-out comedy is filled with further entanglements, switches and complete turnabouts which too often are just what life is all about anyhow.

Harvey Medlinsky directs his tenth production at Arlington Park Theatre with this presentation of "Luv" which continues through Aug. 11.

Backgammon

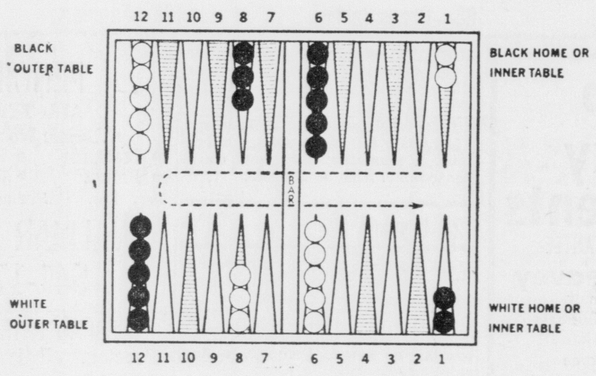
It's a jet-set game with ancient origins

EDITOR'S NOTE: Not only is Oswald Jacoby a bridge whiz, he also is an extraordinary backgammon player. With his son and bridge column co-author James, also a first-class backgammon player, he has developed a 10-part series on the popular game. Part I appears today.

by OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

Backgammon, the fast-moving jet-set game that is gaining universal popularity, has ancient origins. Variations of the present-day game were played in ancient Rome and Greece, and sets have been discovered by archaeologists not only in Egyptian tombs but at the site of Ur of the Chaldees in Iraq. Backgammon has been continuously played in the eastern Mediterranean countries, although in England and America it was, for many years, only an occasional diversion for the wealthy.

The game received a boost in the 1920s when an unknown genius playing in an American club came up with the idea of the doubling cube. Introducing this poker element make it much more exciting as a gambling game.



The present explosive popularity can be attributed to several factors. Charitable organizations have been sponsoring backgammon tournaments to raise funds. Prince Alexis Obolensky has been organizing such tournaments in the Caribbean as well as Las Vegas since the early '60s. This activity has given backgammon publicity and glamor. A general interest also was awakened in board games by the Fischer-Spassky championship chess match in 1972. This carried over into backgammon.

To play backgammon you need a backgammon board (often found on the back of a checker board), 30 men or checkers (half one color; half another), two pairs of dice and a doubling cube.

The backgammon board contains 24 spaces, called points. Each player has 15 men which are placed in a set position at the beginning of each game. These men are of different colors, to identify the opposing forces.

(NEXT: How the game is played.)

Win at bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Dietz 'forced' to grand slam

Jim: "I have just been reading 'Dancing in the Dark' the autobiography of Howard Dietz. Isn't he an old friend of yours?"

Oswald: "He certainly is. I knew him first in college. Your mother and I used to play tennis with him when you were a baby. I have always played bridge with him. He was a very good bridge player. Here is a hand from a match I played with him right after I got back from World War II. I sat North and was most unhappy during the bidding."

Jim: "Looking at your hand I can see why. And each time Mr. Dietz bid again things must have looked worse to you."

Oswald: "Howard's bidding was really wonderful. He knew he would make seven hearts. His only problem was how to get to play the hand against nonvulnerable opponents who held the spade suit. So he just let himself get pushed to seven and did not redouble."

Jim: "What did the opponents have to say while you were scoring the hand?"

Oswald: "Plenty! The hand broke up the match. The general comment was, 'It is bad enough to play against Jacoby. Now Dietz turns out to be even tougher.' "

Steal me. Burn me. Throw me away. I'm still yours.

Once you bring me home, I'm yours forever.
Even if I'm burned. Or lost. Or stolen.
If you look for me and can't find me, just report it. And you'll get me back, as good as new.
And remember: I'll never break your heart. Or leave you stranded in the tight spots.
I'll always be there when you need me.
And that ought to make you feel pretty secure.

The Accepted Influence in the Northwest Suburbs

Our backyard FBI: agents who work a suburban beat

SEEKING OUT the nation's "Ten Most Wanted" is only part of the job of the 11 Des Plaines-based FBI agents under the supervision of Harry Walker. Working out of Des Plaines for 21 years, Walker can describe many activities, including background investigations for potential presidential appointees.

by STEVE FORSYTH

It's hard to be tough while wearing a Mickey Mouse watch, unless you're a stocky FBI agent with a gun under your coat and years of training under your hat.

Joe Stumpf is one such agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, responsible for most of the Northwest suburbs. He is one of 12 resident agents operating from a second-floor office on Ellinwood Street in Des Plaines, where the bare walls and desks reflect the uncluttered efficiency trained into thousands of agents located in 500 offices and 59 regional centers throughout the nation.

On call 24 hours a day, these agents live in the suburbs, but do not live a suburbanite's life. They never are out of touch with the office for more than two hours at a time. They must either leave phone numbers where they can be reached, or call in after each two-hour period if they cannot be contacted.

They receive calls from local police at all hours, for everything ranging from a suburban bank robbery or airplane hijacking to a draft dodger or missing person.

WORKING UNDER the gaze of the nation's Ten Most Wanted Criminals (posted on the wall), the agents are responsible for investigation of about 190 types of violations, from serious crime to infractions of the copyrighted "Smokey the Bear" trademark of the U. S. Dept. of the Interior.

Smokey the Bear admittedly takes a back seat to other activities in the Des Plaines FBI office, which serves the north, Northwest and west suburbs of Chicago.

Although the office has few facilities, its eight desks, three phones and a vault room represent the massive investigative strength of the entire FBI. Connected by teletype with other offices, the Des Plaines office has at its disposal the sophisticated computers, crime labs and national network of agents that make up the FBI.

The Des Plaines office exists because the late J. Edgar Hoover, former director of the FBI, wanted agents placed throughout the nation. The theory was to be able to put a man, his car and his radio anywhere in the nation within an hour, says local Senior Resident Agent Harry Walker.

WALKER HIMSELF came to Des Plaines with another agent to open the office in 1953. The men operated from their homes, meeting at the post office parking lot each morning to discuss the day's plans. Walker signed on as an agent in 1946 at an annual salary of $4,125. Today, starting agents earn $16,727, and can rise to about $24,000 within eight years.

With improved transportation and communication in the country today, the ability to put an FBI agent at a given scene in a short period of time has changed. The resident-agent system continues to produce results, however, because it has another effect.

Stumpf, whose territory includes Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Palatine, Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg, said local police are more familiar with him, and are more likely to call him as soon as an agent is needed.

Stumpf visits several police stations in his territory each day, checking on facts and touching base with the policemen. He and the other agents in Des Plaines also are responsible for several police training programs, such as firearms use and safe arrest procedures.

ALTHOUGH SOME OF his work originates from crime in the communities he covers, Stumpf also is kept busy tracking down information for other agents in other parts of the country. By mail, phone or the teletype, he daily receives leads he is asked to check out, such as possible relatives, former residences or friends of fugitives or suspects.

An average workload for the agents in the Des Plaines office is 40 cases, all at various stages of completion. Although the resident agents live and work in the suburbs, their orders and directions come from the regional office in Chicago, where more complete records are kept.

In addition to agents such as Stumpf, the Des Plaines office also is the base for two agents who are concerned primarily with crime at O'Hare Airport. Another handles Hines Veterans' Administration Hospital.

FBI agent Dave Struck is the police force at Hines, because it is fedral property. He is credited with setting up a system whereby the grounds are patrolled by security men, although Struck is in charge of any crime investigation on the property. Other agents have limited jurisdiction at federal property such as Glenview Naval Air Station and Argonne National Laboratory.

The O'Hare agents, David Kwait and Dave Frahm, divide their duties. Kwait investigates all cargo thefts and related crimes. Frahm handles bomb threats, hijackings and crimes aboard the aircraft. A third agent is assigned to O'Hare part-time, in addition to covering three adjoining suburbs.

WITH HINES HOSPITAL being the largest such facility in the nation, and O'Hare Airport the busiest airport in the world, the Des Plaines agents have a certain distinction.

Frahm and Kwait both have been helped in recent years by technology. For Kwait, the salvation has been the NCIC computer, run by the National Crime Information Center in Washington, D. C. Established three years ago, the computer carries information on fugitives and on stolen property bearing serial numbers.

Frahm's job has been eased somewhat by the new airport security screening systems, which have nearly eliminated hijacking attempts in the nation. Other threats also have diminished because of what Frahm calls the "sterile concourse" atmosphere at airports.

Passengers have also learned that it is a federal crime to even joke about a bomb on board an aircraft. Frahm said several red-faced businessmen and travelers have learned that the hard way.

THE IMAGE OF THE FBI is part of the reason many agents are attracted to it. Agent William Downey half kiddingly said he saw James Cagney years ago in the movie, "G-Man," and decided that was the career for him.

Now the FBI has been on television for many years. The agents agree with the image the show projects — tough, intelligent men in a network of crimefighting. They do not all drive Fords, however, and they don't routinely move from trouble spot to trouble spot.

They are involved in a serious business, and they approach it that way. The uncluttered desks, clean bare walls and limited proportions of the office almost speak for the spartan mood of the FBI. The agents work out of brief cases, spending most of their time on the streets, talking to people.

ALTHOUGH BASICALLY conservative in appearance, recent changes in the FBI codes have changed the face of the bureau. Agents can wear moustaches, hair can be of moderate length, and shirts can be colored or striped. The suburban offices also have stenographers now, adding a female influence to rooms formerly dominated by men.

Annual physicals and weigh-ins are routine. The FBI allows no "fat boys," and the men pay careful attention to their weight. They are allowed three working hours a week to exercise, although they cannot use the time to play tennis or golf. Walker said many of them use the YMCAs or jog at lunchtime.

Usually armed, the agents are trained in the use of handguns, shotguns, rifles, gas guns and the feared Thompson machine gun. They fire on ranges year-around, and four of them are firearms instructors, teaching other agents and local police.

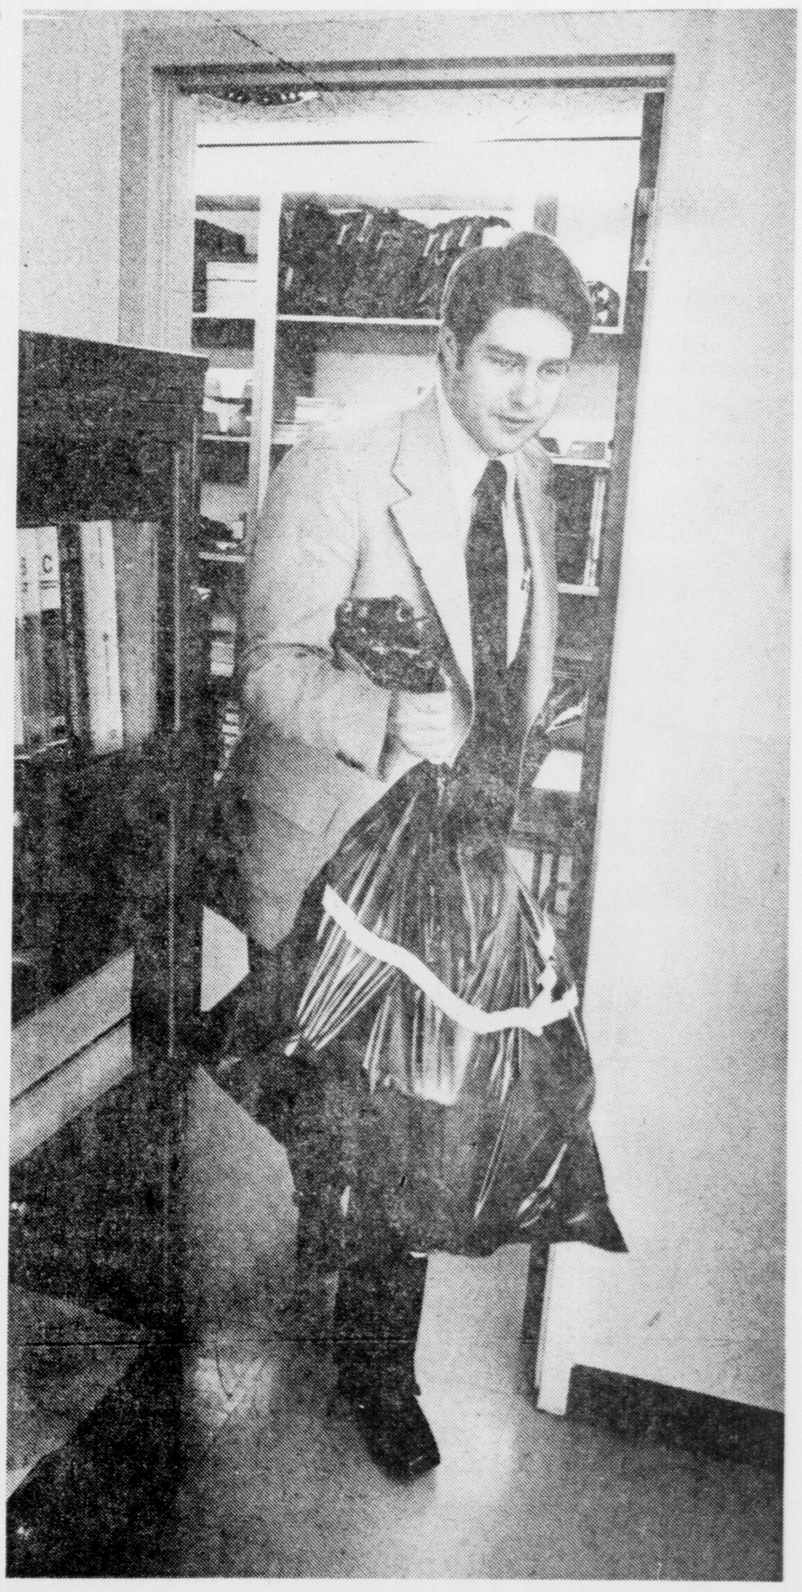
THE STANDARDS AND requirements for service in the FBI are high, and the agents feel that contributes to the reputation and esprit de corps they enjoy. Others like being out of the office, free of being "cooped up," and one said, "you're always on the move."

Agents do not live in constant danger because they try to control their own circumstances. Walker explained that police patrolmen usually are in more danger because they have to go into unknown situations— family fights, burglaries, armed robberies — or have to stop drivers in unfavorable circumstances. The death of Hillside patrolman Anthony Raymond is an example, he said.

He said FBI agents prefer to take advantage of time and planning. "Even if they're armed, we hope to have it planned to take anybody by surprise," Walker said. It is not uncommon for agents to locate a wanted person and keep track of him until circumstances are in their favor.

On the street, an agent is like any other man. He is interested in his home, his car, his family and friends.

At work, he is a different breed.



EVIDENCE FROM an O'Hare Airport cargo theft is packaged by agent David Kwait before being sent to the FBI crime labs in Washington, D.C.

Search for Jaguar owners

A Rome adventure ends in Des Plaines

The FBI is not usually in the used-car business, but when a Jaguar auto was found abandoned at the Rome airport some months ago, an investigation was started that eventually led to Des Plaines.

Using FBI international liaison connections, Italian police received cooperation in finding an owner for the car. Fearing a kidnaping, murder or robbery, the police had traced the owners of the car — a wealthy American couple who had purchased it in England and driven it in Europe for a few months.

Agents in the Des Plaines FBI office were subsequently notified, because the couple reportedly lived in a North Shore community — part of the Des Plaines office jurisdiction.

An agent dispatched from the Des Plaines office approached the substantial home of the couple who purchased the car. A woman answered the door and dispelled fears that she or her husband had met with foul play.

Surprised that the FBI was involved and had located her at home, she explained that they had purchased the expensive car for use while on vacation, and simply parked it when they boarded the plane to come home. She added that anyone who needed the car in Rome was welcome to keep it, because they had no use for it anymore.

O'HARE AIRPORT FBI agents also are fond of telling about the man who was pulled off a plane for investigation because he was carrying a large gyroscope. A suspicious stewardess had inquired what the device was, and the answer left her even more concerned.

She notified authorities, who determined that the gyroscope was indeed safe, and the delayed passenger was allowed to continue to his destination — a science fair.

THE DESKTOPS are clean and the mood is serous as FBI agents Jerry Annino, left, and Joseph Stumpf work in their Des Plaines office. Stumpf, sporting his familiar Mickey Mouse watch is responsible for investigations in most of the Northwest suburbs.

Wheeling sets stiff Legion tempo

by MIKE GARBUS

With the aid of some ragged defense by Logan Square, Wheelng broke open a tight game with a 10-run sixth and coasted to an easy 11-4 win Saturday on the latter's home field.

Dave Mnichowicz and Jeff Brisson traded solo home runs before Brisson's own throwing error gave the Lions a temporary advantage in the top of the sixth.

The roof caved in on the visitors during Post 1968's next turn however, as they batted around against eventual loser Kevin Kelley and his teammates, who committed six miscues during the disaster.

Brisson led off with a single and moved to third on Mnichowicz's errant pickoff attempt. Jim Bucaro then booted Ken Slepicka's roller to short. Bob Burke laid down a bunt, Paul Obuchowski let Mnichowicz's throw to first glance off his glove into right, and when Steve Bobowski's peg to third squirted into foul ground, Wheeling had three runs.

Paul Groot and Hanisch laced back-to-back two-baggers for another run. Hanisch crossed on Henricks hit, and he advanced on Pat Rooney's bobble in center.

Carl Pfister drew another pass and all hands moved up a notch when Rooney's relay throw to the plate was high after fielding Brisson's second hit of the frame.

George Kaage ripped a single good for another pair, and Ken Slepika's two-run circuit blow to left closed out the scoring.

A pinch two-run homer by Bob Wagner in the seventh was Logan Square's last gasp against Hanisch who allowed six hits, struck out seven, walked one and hit a batsman.

Wheeling boasts an 11-3 district mark, while the Lions, after a forfeit win over Norwood Park last Thursday, stand at 4-9.

HEIGHTS STINGS NORWOOD

by ART MUGALIAN

Arlington Heights kept pace with Wheeling in the Ninth District American Legion standings with a 5-1 victory over visiting Norwood Park Saturday. The win gave Lloyd Meyer's Arlington crew a 10-4 league record, one game behind first-place Wheeling.

Arlington Heights jumped on top for good with a three-run third inning highlighted by four singles and a trio of Norwood errors. The Heights team banged out eight hits in all.

Norwood Park got off to an inauspicious beginning when their leadoff man in the first, Scott Sandock, was thrown out at first base by rifle-armed Bruce Hanson, the Arlington right fielder. Sandock had an apparent base hit, but Hanson fielded the shot on one bounce and fired to first baseman Tom Good for the putout.

Don Kamps, the Arlington pitcher, wasn't as fortunate in the second. Norwood's Mike Benacka opened the inning with a towering fly ball just out of the reach of left fielder Mike Saugling for a double.

With one away, Jeff Hart rammed a sinking liner to center which fell in front hind him for another two-base hit. Benacka scored from second and Norwood had a short-lived lead.

A double play, the first of two turned in by Arlington's defense, helped Kamps out of the scrape in the second, and his teammates were quick to get back the run in the bottom of the inning.

Cleanup hitter Good looped a double into the left field corner and he came home when Norwood pitcher Jack Fulara threw wildly past first on Brett Frase's sacrifice bunt attempt.

Kamps started the bottom of the third with a single inside the third base bag, the first of two hits for the Arlington hurler. Jerry DeSimone beat out an infield hit and Kamps took third on an errant throw. The two baserunners then pulled a successful double steal to give Heights a 2-1 edge.

Riplinger followed with a single through the hole into left, DeSimone stopping at third. Bug when the relay flew over the Norwood catcher's head, the Arlington shortstop raced home. Good capped the rally with a bouncing single into right to send Riplinger across the plate.

Kamps coasted along, walking three, but surrendering no hits after the second inning. He pitched six innings, good for the win, before yielding to Carl Pederson in the seventh.

Pinch hitter George Vukovich tripled in the sixth for Arlington and he came home on a bad throw from the outfield. The extra run was a cushion for Pederson, who walked a batter and hit another in the Norwood seventh before retiring the side.

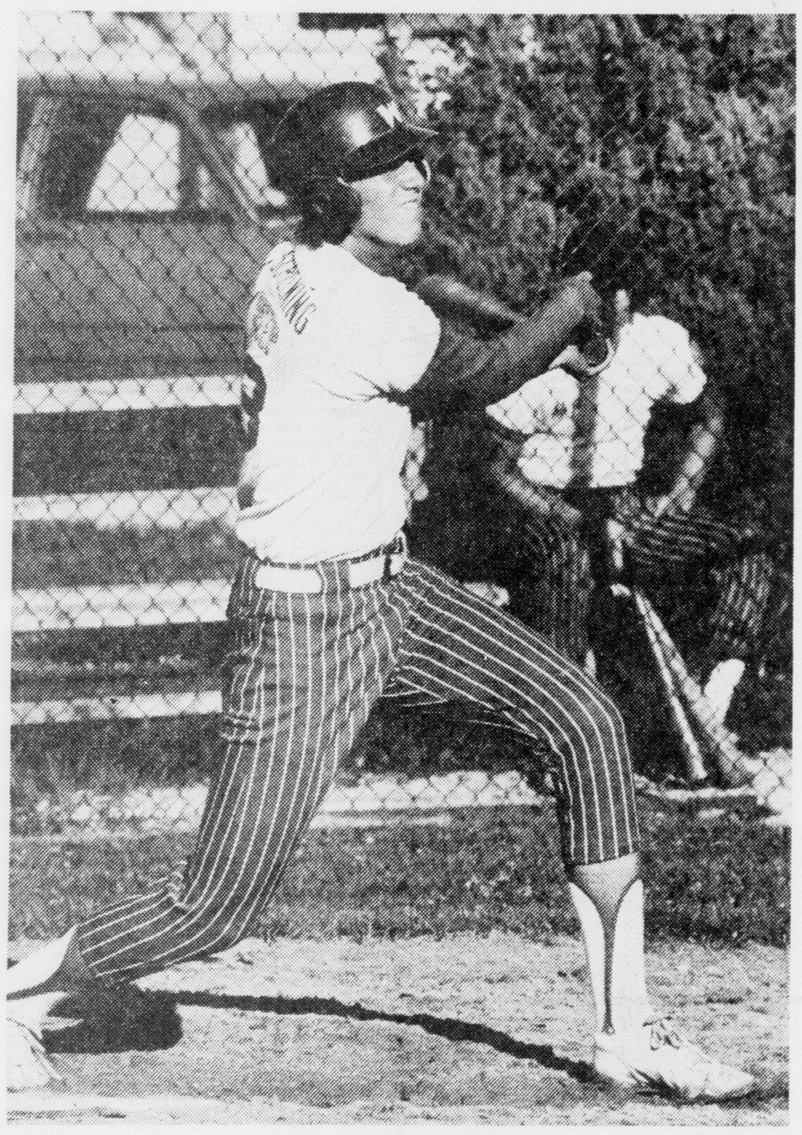
TIM HALAS' right arm is a blur as he fies to the plate against a Mount Prospect batter Thursday in Arlington Heights' 5-4 legion win at Rec Park. Arlington's Halas was removed later in the game and did not get credit for a decision, despite four innings of hard work.



DON STEVENS SWINGS and the ball takes off on a line to the outfield. The tall Mount Prospect first sacker lashes one against Arlington Heights in the legion confrontation Thursday at Recreation Park, which was won by Arlington, 5-4. Mount Prospect, with an 8-7 record, holds third place in the Ninth District standings behind Wheeling and Arlington.

Willie an "honest" slugger

Willie Stargell of the Pirates played 148 games in 1973 and did not steal a single base. It really wasn't necessary for the Bucs' slugger, though. Among his 158 hits were 43 doubles, three triples and 44 home runs. Stargell scored 106 times.

Douglas Savings pulls away

Douglas Savings & Loan, by gaining a 20-4 victory over The Cake Box, moved into a commanding lead in the Arlington V.F.W. golf league. Hanlon Decorators remained a distant second by splitting their match, 12-12, with third place Kehe Motors.

Harvey Bartholomew, with the help of birdies on the 12th and 18th holes, fired a 38 to share low gross honors with Chuck Grom, Bob Hanlon and Ralph Becker.

Chuck Baranowski, John Kehe, Jerry Haas, and Don Dewyze all carded low net 30's.

Wei leads area again; 2nd twice in state

River Trails Tennis Club hosted the Illinois State Junior Boys Tennis Tournament last week, but only one local youngster made it to the finals — Paul Wei.

Making it a habit of getting into the championship battle, Wei missed out in taking a state championship in both doubles and singles for 16-and-under boys. The week before he won the doubles title at the Western Closed tourney.

The Arlington Heights athlete lost to second-seeded Keith Rudman, 6-2, 7-5, in singles. Then he joined Steve Stuehrk in a herculean task of trying to upset the Canadian National doubles team of Steve Zolrich and Hans Muench. Muench, 16, and Zolrich, 15, are ranked 1-2 among 16-and-under boys in their nation. They handled Wei, only 14, and Stuehrk, 6-1, 6-1.

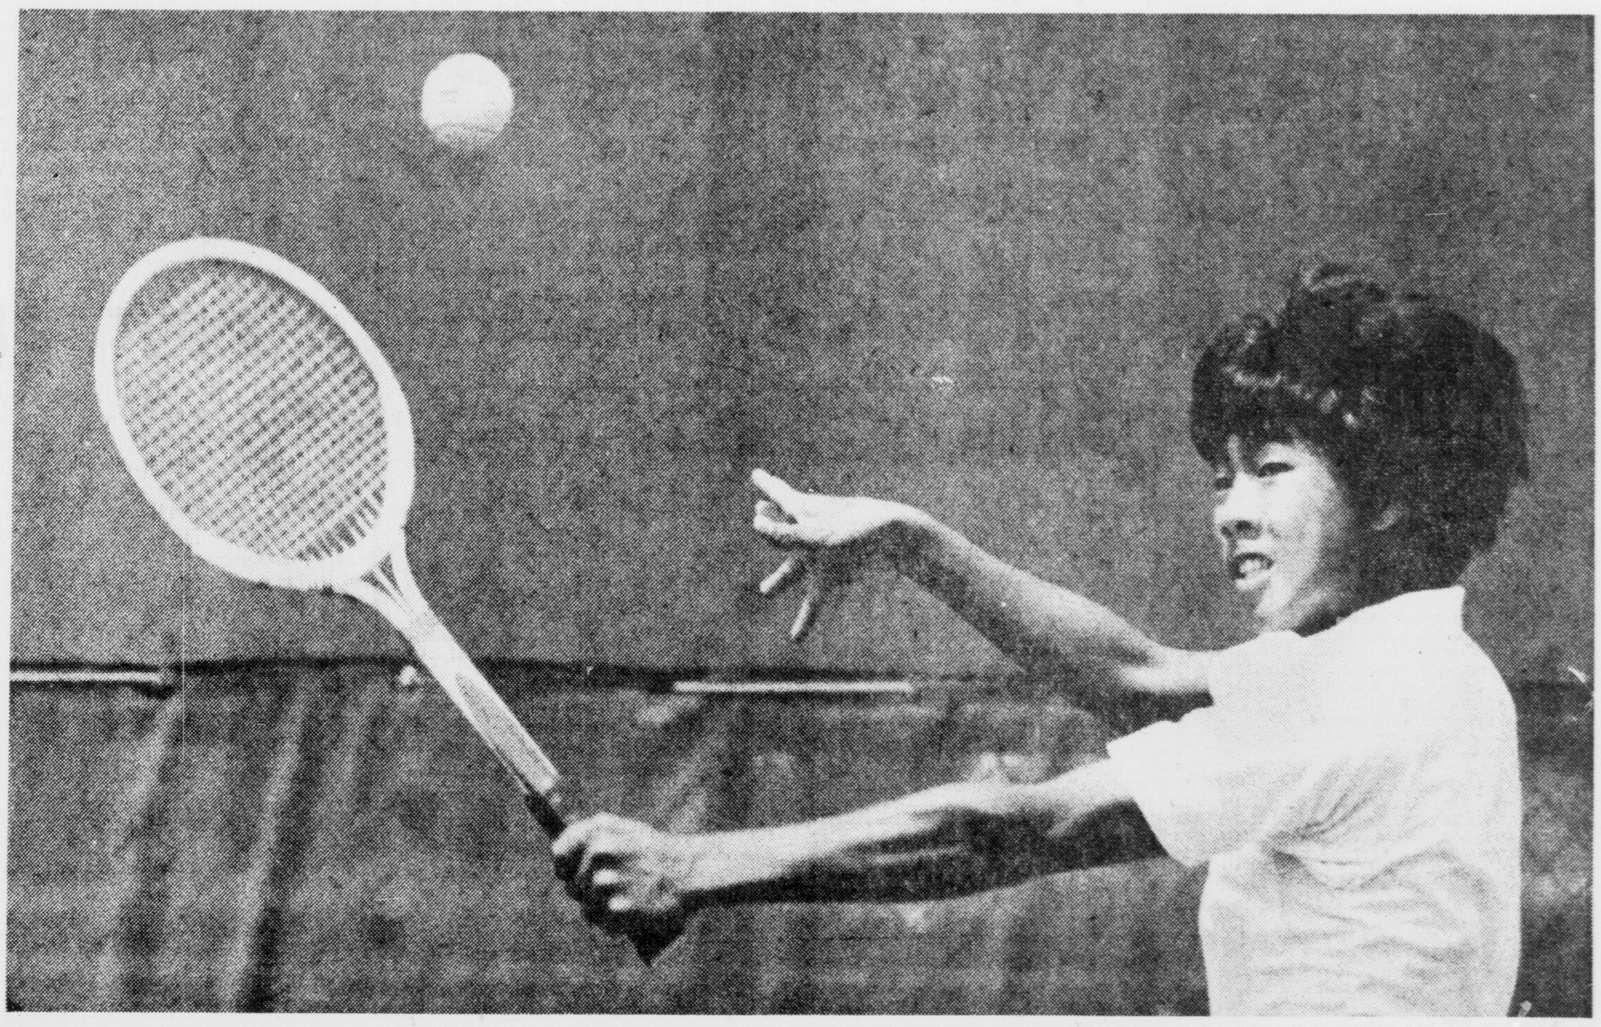
Wei did some upsetting of his own in singles by taking care of the third-seeded player, Greg Zydian, 6-4, 6-3. Wei was seeded seventh. Wei's showings earned him runner-up trophies in a field that saw 128 begin play early last week.

Former Arlington teammate Jon Paczkowski was also seeded seventh in the 18-and-under division which also had a draw of 128. Paczkowski, who recently graduated, lost in the quarterfinals to Chuck Meurisse of Glenwood, 7-6, 6-2.

In doubles, Paczkowski and his partner, Steve Pauly, dropped out in the semifinals to the Canadian National team of John Picken and Glenn Bradshaw, 6-4, 6-1.

Craig VanGorp, also a former Arlington prep player, joined former Conant star Buddy Edmondson in doubles to reach the final 16. They lost to the top-seeded team of Mark Parker and Bill Nichols, 6-4, 6-2.

These were the only area tennis players who reached the final 16 and beyond. It was the third straight year that River Trails has hosted the state meet.



NOT GOING HIS 'WEI.' Cutting loose his backhand during the singles finals of the Illinois State Junior Boys Tennis Tournament is Paul Wei of Arlington Heights. Wei — only 14 — lost in singles to Keith Rudman, 6-2, 7-5. Wei and his partner also dropped their doubles title match Friday at River Trails Tennis Club.

Local golfers take 2nd, 3rd

Mark Murphy, of Valparaiso, Ind., won a sudden death playoff with Steve Schultz of Naperville to win the fourth Northern Illinois Men's Amateur Golf Association meet held Friday at Silver Lake Golf Club.

Murphy and Schultz, playing in the senior grouping of the junior open division, both shot 73's.

Mount Prospect's Vic Incinelli fired a 37-37-74 to finish third.

In the junior group Scott Kisten of Des Plaines shot a 38-34-72 to finish a stroke behind winner Mark Schiene of Chicago Heights.

Three NIMAGA tournaments at Indian Lakes (July 29), Wedgewood (Aug. 5) and St. Andrews (Aug. 12) remain. The championship tournament will be held August 16 at Village Green Country Club in Mundelein.

Hoffman Estates, Buffalo Grove register 2 triumphs

The up-and-coming Hoffman Estates baseball team added some fuel to the summer league fires by winning a pair of encounters last Thursday and Friday. The first-year team, coached by Gary Kraft, ripped previously undefeated Barrington, 12-10, and then came back the next day to blank Conant, 6-0.

Earl Hausl went the distance on the mound against Barrington as the Hawks fought back from a 9-6 deficit with three runs in the fifth inning and three more in the sixth.

On Friday, Hoffman rapped out 13 hits and Ray Gawron hurled a four-hit shutout in the 6-0 win over Conant. Joe Parille was three-for-three for the Hawks with a double and two runs scored as Kraft's team came up with four sixth-inning runs to put the game out of reach.

Randy Brown and Tommy Schmalz each collected a pair of hits for the Hawks and Gawron fanned six Cougar batters to gain the victory.

Fremd moundsman Steve Peters whitewashed Prospect, 3-0, with a nifty six-hitter on Thursday, but Terry Gellinger's Fremd crew suffered a 7-5 setback in eight innings against Palatine on Friday.

Chris Burrus drove in the go-ahead run for Palatine in the eighth inning with a loaded single off relief pitcher Scott Orbin. Jim Lubinski followed with a sacrifice fly, making the score 7-5 and giving Garth Chase the win in relief. Palatine had erased a 5-2 Fremd lead with three runs in the fifth.

Visiting Buffalo Grove got all it needed to win on Tony Spinelle's first inning two-run homer in defeating Rolling Meadows 5-1 Friday night.

Scott Green drove in the Mustang run with a sacrifice fly, but a three-run Bison sixth keyed by Spinelle's RBI single iced the win for Tim Tage. Tom Gallagher took the loss.

The evening before, the Bison survived Mike Brzuszkiewicz's fifth inning solo homer to tip the hosting Wheeling Wildcats, 5-4.

Dave Derrig had a two-run single and winning pitcher Dave Smithern chipped in a run-producing safety, but the visitors' eventual winning marker crossed on a 'Cat error.

Brzuszkiewicz also had an RBI hit as did Glenn Barry, but it wasn't enough to save John Miller from the loss.

Rolling Meadows gained a victory Thursday by downing Arlington, 5-3, on the Cardinals' home field.

Hersey trounced Arlington, 9-3, on Friday.

Ray Fairbanks threw a complete game against the Conant Cougars as the Schaumburg Saxons posted a 6-5 summer league victory Thursday.

Conant outhit the Saxons 8-7, but Jim Karass still was shackled with the loss.

Schaumburg's George Cwik won the game in the seventh when he doubled with the Saxons trailing 5-3. Cwik also had a single.

Schaumburg's game Friday against Dundee was cancelled.

Wheeling rallied for three runs after two were out in the top of the sixth to clip Prospect, 3-2. With two men down, and one on via a fielder's choice, Wildcat Dan Black ripped a single and advanced when Mike Brzuszkiewicz reached on an error at short.

Glenn Barry and Randy Fedro answered the challenge off Prospect starter George Savage with successive singles to wipe out a 2-0 Knight lead.

Prospect had taken the early advantage with a two-run fifth on an error, a sacrifice, a walk and Scott Heatherington's bases-clearing triples.

On Saturday, Prospect split a doubleheader with Bloom in a non-conference twin-bill, losing the opener 2-0 before capturing the nightcap, 9-0.

Forest View dropped a 9-8 decision to Addison Trail in eight innings Friday as they let an 8-6 lead slip away in the sixth. Mark Smith of the Blazers was the thorn in the Falcons' side with four hits, including a two-run single that tied the score in the sixth and a base hit in the eighth that won the game.

Mike Kalasmiki gained the victory for Addison with four innings of relief work. Forest View hurlers gave up 15 hits in suffering the extra-inning loss.

Elk Grove was nipped by Maine South, 3-0, Friday, despite a nifty pitching effort by righthander Steve Kliff. The Grenadiers, however, managed just two hits off the hurling of a pair of Maine South pitchers.

Kliff allowed just seven hits and two earned runs while striking out four Maine South batters.

Mike Kelley's 3-for-4 showing paced Maine West to a 7-4 victory over host Maine North Friday night. The previous evening, the Warriors had disposed of a visiting Elk Grove crew, 5-1.

Steve Zuccarini's double highlighted a four-run Maine West seventh to hand Bob Earhart the decision.

Gary Ruske rapped a two-run single in a three-run third for the Norsemen, who routed Fenton Thursday, 8-2.

Cobb the King

Former Detroit Tiger great Ty Cobb had the highest lifetime batting average (.367), made the most hits (4,191) and scored the most runs (2,244), as well as stealing the most bases (892) in major league baseball history.

All in the family

Two Chicago White Sox players have brothers also playing major league baseball. Catcher Chuck Brinkman's brother is Eddie, the Detroit Tiger shortstop, while Carlos May's kin is Houston Astro first sacker Lee May.

GARY PLAYER'S GOLF CLASS: Keeping fit

Homers spice 9th District action

by MIKE GARBUS

Arlington's 7-6 victory over host Logan Square Friday evening featured six home runs, but another that didn't quite make it over proved to be the turning point of the game.

Post 36 leftfielder Joe Riplinger's fence-rattling back-handed stab of Paul Obuchowski's bid for a fifth inning grand slam brought an abrupt halt to a Lion rally bent on erasing a 5-3 deficit. RBI singles by Jim Dunke and Mark Hartley against Arlington starter Paul Kastner preceded Riplinger's heroics.

Tom Good's two-run homer and a solo shot by Bruce Hanson in the top of the inning provided the visitors with a big enough cushion to withstand the scare, but the fireworks didn't end there.

Logan Square continued to play long ball as Steve Bobowski homered and Obuchowski parked a two-run belt against reliever Dave Thorstenson, but Hanson's second solo home run in the seventh following Riplinger's run-scoring single in the sixth proved to be the margin of victory.

Arlington initially scored in the first on Good's safety and added another in the fourth on Rance Aguirre's sacrifice fly. The Lions first tally resulted from Dumke's round-tripper in the third.

Kastner worked five complete innings in earning the win, while Dumke, the last of a trio of Lion hurlers, sustained the loss.

WHEELING ZIPS PROSPECT

Jeff Brisson and Paul Groot provided the hitting muscle Wheeling needed to post a 4-0 Ninth District Legion victory over Mount Prospect Friday.

The win boosted Wheeling's league leading record to 11-3 while Prospect slipped to 8-7.

Groot, Wheeling's All-Star catcher, started the scoring in the second inning with a two-run homer. Brisson drove in the other two runs in the fifth to round out the scoring. Brisson finished the game hitting 3-for-3.

Mitch Gullett threw the shutout for Wheeling while Buddy Hughes pitched a complete game for Prospect.

Hughes struck out nine and walked four.

"Buddy pitched a good game," said Prospect manager Merv Fink. "He just made the two mistakes."

RUNNING GOOD. Arlington Heights' first baseman Tom Good circles third and heads for home on his way to an inside-the-park homer in Thursday's legion game against Mount Prospect. Good survived a collision at the plate to score the deciding run in Arlington's 5-4 victory at Recreation Park. Lloyd Meyer's Arlington team holds second place in Ninth District legion standings. Wheeling is in first.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
